A Girl Worth Having.
A few weeks ago I read in your paper Mr. Morehead's experience in the Plating Business, in which he cleared $167.85 in a month; but I beat that in a month, and cleared $206.17 in one month. Can any of your readers beat this? You can get spoons, forks or jewelry to plate at every house. Send $3 to Lake Electric Co., Zanesville, Ohio, and they will send you a Plater, and you can make money enough in three hours to pay for it, or address them for circulars. There is plenty of work to do in both city and country; then why should any person be poor or out of employment with such an opportunity at hand. I hope my experience will help them as much as it has helped me. LAURA B.

There's a good deal of guarantee business in the store keeping of today. It's too excessive. Or too reluctant. Half the time it means nothing. Words—only words. This offer to refund the money, or to pay a reward, is made under the hope that you won't want your money back, and that you won't claim the reward. Of course.

So, whoever is honest in making it, and works not on his own reputation alone, but on the reputation of the medicine, must have something he has faith in back of the guarantee. The business wouldn't stand a year without it.

What is lacking is confidence. Back of that, what is lacking is that clear honesty which is above the "average practice." Dr. Pierce's medicines are guaranteed to accomplish what they are intended to do, and their makers give the money back if the result isn't apparent.

Doesn't it strike you that a medicine, which the makers have so much confidence in, is the medicine for you?

BIRMINGHAM CHURCHES.
WOODLANDS.—Services still continue. Nine received by letter and four for baptism during the week. Rev. Carl Smith and Prof. Bassett have been assisting the pastor during the week. The meetings continue.

ESLEY CITY.—The series of meetings that have been in progress for the past three weeks closed yesterday with the baptism of four candidates. Received eighteen members to date, the membership being doubled during the meeting. One of the deacons, Bro. Joe Rogers, gladdened the heart of the pastor by presenting him with a fine gold watch. The church is contending for three Sundays.

FIRST CHURCH.—Over two hundred in Sunday-school. Fine interest. A real revival at the morning service. Three joined—two by experience, one by letter. At night the house overflowed; profound interest. Dr. Wharton, of Baltimore, will be with us on Nov. 4th, to begin a meeting. Pray for us.

EAST LAKE.—Two hundred and seven in Sunday-school. Pastor preached at both services. Three received for baptism and one by letter.

SOUTH SIDE.—Large congregations: 175 in Sunday-school; collections, $5.60; one addition by letter. Morning subject, "The Blood of Jesus," evening, "The Bible our Pillar of Cloud by Day and Fire by Night."

BESSEMER.—Pastor Wood preached to the usual congregations. Sunday-school gave five dollars to the building fund of Howard College under Bro. Aspey's proposition.

PRATT MINES.—Pastor Lee had two good congregations. The church goes to the association free of debt and in splendid condition. This church has given $300 to the new building on South Side.

MONTGOMERY CHURCHES.
FIRST CHURCH.—A full house listened to pastor Harris last Sunday morning as he spoke on the importance of Bible Study. In the evening, the pastor preached on "The Word of God," from Psalm 119:105. The services were marked by tender and strong spiritual interest. Miss Mary Roquemore was buried from the church on Monday afternoon. She was a bright and trustful Christian.

The Sunday school is growing in interest and numbers and efficiency. The adult department opened Sunday morning with some sixty in attendance, representing an increase of forty in the school. This department, if properly looked after, is destined to add very great interest and efficiency to the Sunday school work, and to the study of the Scriptures.

West Montgomery.—Attendance at Sunday-school.

OBITUARY.
Byron W. Yarbrough was born in Orion, Pike county, Ala., Oct. 23, 1863. In this refined and cultured community, and the endearments of a Christian home, he grew to manhood; and there, June 30, 1891, surrounded by those he loved best, he sweetly "asleep in Jesus." "Notes from the life of the resurrection man, Byron Yarbrough was converted when sixteen years of age and baptized Aug. 30, 1882; to the end he was a consistent, humble follower of his Master. Feeling called to preach Christ, and having given satisfactory evidence of his fitness for the holy office, he was ordained at Orion Baptist church, July 30, 1887. Desiring to fit himself more fully for the work of the ministry, he entered Howard College, was several years a student of that institution, having just returned from East Lake, when seized with his fatal illness. At college he was greatly beloved by teachers and students. His doctrine, tractable disposition, his amiability, his passion for music for the holy office, was refined and ennobling, and his upright Christian walk and conversation, won him friends wherever he was known. He has left a void which only the gentle ministrations of a loving Heavenly Father can heal. May he who is too wise to make a mistake, and too good to be unkind, be near his dear parents and relatives in this hour of sore bereavement.

OBITUARY.
Rev. Elijah Howell was born near New Lexington, Tuscaloosa county, Ala., May 10th, 1826. He was married to Miss S. A. Shepherd, January, 1850. In the same year he professed faith in Christ and united with the Salem church in New Lexington. He soon had impressions to preach and his heart was fully in the work.

By exercising his gift the church was "apt to teach," hence the church at Spring Hill, Tuscaloosa county, Ala., January 20th, 1883, ordained him to the work of the gospel in glory. In his later years he faithfully labored for about a quarter of a century, when, from physical inability, he was forced to give it up.

God blessed his labors and verified His promise to him, "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless bring forth with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him."

He was a man of great piety—a man of God. He loved to give of his means to relieve the sufferings of the needy. He loved the truth.

On the 22nd day of July, 1891, he worked very hard in the forenoon and enjoyed his dinner, but complained of a hurting in his breast. At 2 o'clock he went down to the spring, and in half an hour after, news came to his wife that he was dead. She immediately went down and found the dead man true, but he was really.

He was a member of the Kennedy Sabbath-school and Baptist church. In view of the above facts the church enters into the following resolutions:

1. That in the death of Rev. E. Howell our church has lost one of her most zealous and devoted members, and the community one of its truest citizens.

2. That we most deeply sympathize with the bereaved companion, family, and the community in the loss of one so much esteemed by all; but we would submissively bow to the will of Divine Providence, saying, "Thy will be done."

3. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, and that the A. A. B. B. be requested to publish them, and also that a copy of the same be sent to the bereaved companion, sister S. A. Howell.

Rev. W. A. GRANT, Committee.

Miss LENA MAYO YARBROUGH died at the residence of her mother in Jefferson, Ala., August 20, 1891, in her twenty-second year, after an illness of three weeks. Deceased leaves a mother, sister and two brothers to mourn her seemingly unexpected demise. No future ever seemed brighter for usefulness. She had, through personal endeavor, aided by her mother and grandmother, fitted herself for the duties of life. She graduated from the Judson in 1888, from which she began teaching, with a degree of success commensurate with her endeavors, ever ready to engage in whatever would advance the interest of intelligent moral character.

Such a life may be compared to the opening of a flower plucked in its beauty and fragrance, enjoyed for a moment and then perished.

But Revelation lends reality to a character so lovely as was hers that will influence for good all who knew her.

Though we feel deeply the loss of one so dear in this home, the church, the Sabbath-school good, collections increasing. Total membership to date, 141. During the meetings of last week, four of our pupils have accepted the Savior and joined the church, for which we are rejoicing.

Renewed interest is manifested in the protracted meetings going on at this church. The meetings will be continued during this week. The church has been crowded every night with anxious, attentive listeners to the forcible and eloquent sermons preached by the pastor, Rev. Geo. W. Aspey.

ADAMS STREET.—Sunday-school increasing in attendance. Collection, good. Committee on correspondence has not yet announced the selection of a pastor. Prayer meeting conducted every Thursday night by the members. Various committees of the church are at work. Miss May Bell Scott, president of the Sunbeam Society, has been named from a pleasant visit North and has taken charge, to the delight of the beams.

Beauty is a thing often hard to define, but it is acknowledged that one of its greatest aids is lacking when there is any deficiency or disease of the hair, especially if it be a woman.

The Creoles are noted the world over for the luxuriance and beauty of their hair. It should not be supposed that this results from carelessness. On the contrary, it is the outcome of the most careful attention. There is a peculiar dressing and tonic the Creoles have used for generations and it is this that is made the basis of the Louisiana Creole Hair Restorer, generally considered the quickest and most satisfactory restorative for the hair now in use.

It promotes the growth, cures dandruff, stimulates the scalp and gives it a healthy tone, and in a great number of cases has cured absolute baldness, causing hair to grow on scalps that seemed absolutely barren.

As a dressing it is unequalled, and it has a place on the toilet table of some of the most fashionable ladies of the country.

OBITUARY.
Rev. Elijah Howell was born near New Lexington, Tuscaloosa county, Ala., May 10th, 1826. He was married to Miss S. A. Shepherd, January, 1850. In the same year he professed faith in Christ and united with the Salem church in New Lexington. He soon had impressions to preach and his heart was fully in the work.

By exercising his gift the church was "apt to teach," hence the church at Spring Hill, Tuscaloosa county, Ala., January 20th, 1883, ordained him to the work of the gospel in glory. In his later years he faithfully labored for about a quarter of a century, when, from physical inability, he was forced to give it up.

God blessed his labors and verified His promise to him, "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless bring forth with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him."

An Interesting Letter from Maj. Penn, The Evangelist.

GENTLEMEN: I have given the Electropoise a thorough trial. I give it as my opinion that it ought to be in every family, and that every traveling man ought to have one. I have not missed having one or two bottles of the Electropoise for the past twenty-five years, and I have now come to July without having any left, and only one time a slight symptom, and I used the Electropoise and it all passed away. I have had the Electropoise six months. Yours truly,

W. E. PENN.

EUREKA SPRINGS, ARK.—Mr. DuBois—Dear Sir and Friend: You can use the above as you desire. You said to me, as I remember, as you handed me the Electropoise: "Take this and give it a thorough trial, and send it back when you get tired of it. I do not want to hear from you until you are perfectly satisfied. Well, I am not tired of it, and do not believe that I ever will be, and so I do not see any chance for you to get it back until I die, and if I die first my wife will not give it up until she dies, and so it seems to me that you are slightly 'left' as the boys say. I think that you will sell several of them in this place. I find that some of the wealthy people are very much pleased with mine. Yours truly, W. E. PENN.

Major Penn is widely known all over the South as an evangelist. It was only recently that he was at Birmingham and other points in this state.

THE Electropoise.

(TRADE MARK)
The Life Work of an Educated Physician, IS AN INSTRUMENT FOR THE Cure of Disease Without Medicine

BASED on new theories of the cause and cure of disease, it deals with the electrical and magnetic conditions of the body and the gases surrounding it in the atmosphere, controlling these conditions at will. It is not electricity. DISEASE is simply impaired vitality. The Electropoise constantly adds to the vitality and only assists nature, in nature's way, to throw off the trouble. Nothing is easier of proof than that, with this treatment, cures are made which by all other means are impossible.

ACUTE CASES of all kinds are cured in hours by its random use. One-tenth the intelligence and perseverance devoted to ordinary methods of medication works miracles in all CHRONIC CASES.

This is an inexhaustible home treatment. For testimonials from people YOU KNOW and all further information, call on or address T. M. VASS,

GERMETUER CURES FEVERS.

As responsible, intelligent men make the statement, that after long experience and ample test, we believe Germetuer will break any case of ordinary or typhoid fever within twelve hours from first dose. Our belief is based on such testimony as we offer below:

Rev. T. C. BOYKIN.

State St. S. Evangelist for Georgia, states: My daughter had a slow fever for several days, and the symptoms all pointed to a protracted case of typhoid fever. We used the usual remedies for several days but with little if any benefit. We then tried the Royal Germetuer, and nothing else. The second day after its use there was a clear remission of the fever, and on the third day she was able to sit up. After that she continued to improve steadily, and now is entirely restored. We attribute these happy results to the use of Royal Germetuer.

Decatur, Ga. T. C. BOYKIN.

Rev. J. L. WHITE.

Pastor First Baptist Church, Durham, N.C., writes: The night after we got to Blowing Rock (N. C.), my wife was taken down with a severe fever, with every indication of its being typhoid. I called in the physician, but he did her no good, and on the third night, at midnight, I began giving her Germetuer every two hours. Soon she fell asleep, began perspiring, and awoke next morning without any fever. The Germetuer did it. We started home that day, still using Germetuer, and Mrs. White improved all the way, and has had no fever since.

Durham, N. C. J. L. WHITE.

These are from people well known and thoroughly reliable. Their experience is not peculiar, for the remedy is undoubtedly the best remedy known for FEVERS. Do not fail to use it for typhoid, cholera, and other troubles, such as CHOLERA MORBUS (one dose often cures), CHOLERA INFANTUM (safe to give at any age), Diarrhoea, Dysentery, etc.

Keep it always on hand; it will save money. Sold by your drug dealer.

Arresting an Emperor.

The Mistake Made by an Old Park Guard in Austria.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, was arrested at Munich recently, for the first time in his life, says the New York Recorder, while visiting his daughter, Archduchess Gisela, who is married to Prince Leopold, of Bavaria, and who resides in that city. His majesty, who was not in uniform, happened to stray absent-mindedly across the grass when strolling through the "English garden" to the regent's palace.

Suddenly he heard a voice behind him shouting in great and angry tones: "Are you going to get out of there or not?" The emperor, without dreaming for a moment that this remarkable courteous remark was addressed to himself, quietly proceeded on his way. But before he had gone many more steps he was roughly seized by the arm by an old one armed guard, who had the ribbons of several war medals studded on the left breast of his uniform.

"Am I to speak twice?" he inquired furiously. "Will you get off the grass, or am I to arrest you?"

"Does he know who I am?" asked the sovereign somewhat angrily, and using the contemptuous third person instead of the second, as he usually does. "What!" shouted the old soldier, perfectly frantic with rage. "You dare to speak to me in the third person? I'll teach you a lesson!"

Arrested. Come right along, now, to the guard house. I'll show you there who I am, and who you are!"

With that he clutched hold of the monarch's arm and commenced walking him off to the guard house.

The emperor, who had by this time recovered his good temper, accompanied his captor submissively. As they passed along many of the promenaders, recognizing Francis Joseph, ranged themselves on one side of the path and respectfully uncovered their heads, afterward gazing with opened mouths at the emperor at the extraordinary spectacle. But the old park guard was far too angry to notice this. The sentries, too, presented arms, which merely caused him to look round to see if there was any officer in the vicinity. It was not, indeed, until they met Baron Malsen, one of the principal dignitaries of the Bavarian court, that the stubborn and obstinate old park guard obtained any inkling as to the identity of his prisoner.

The baron, on seeing the emperor being thus marched along, was literally dumfounded with amazement, and could only manage to stammer: "But, your majesty—"

"Well, your majesty, I am under arrest," laughingly replied the emperor.

On hearing the word "majesty" pronounced the guard had dropped the arm of his captive as if it had been of red hot iron, and began to tremble from head to foot as though afflicted with ague.

"Holy mother and St. Joseph," he exclaimed, "what have I done!"

"That's all right, my friend," remarked the emperor, "but now you have got to take me right along to the guard house in order that we may have an opportunity of becoming mutually acquainted."

The poor old fellow walked along as if on his way to the scaffold, with a look of absolute terror on his wrinkled face. On reaching the guard house the emperor entered the room of the officer in charge, ordering his captor to wait for him outside. Ten minutes later the old man was summoned to appear before the monarch, and in answer to an inquiry as to what he had to say for himself only succeeded in murmuring brokenly: "I have served forty years as a soldier, and have been wounded in three campaigns!"

"I am afraid you have lost your post as park guard, my friend," interrupted the emperor, with a smile on his kindly features. "But if you will present yourself to my daughter's master of the household at seven o'clock tonight I will see that you receive a yet more comfortable berth as one of the door keepers of the palace. You certainly will prove a good and incorruptible Cerebus."

The old fellow's eyes filled with tears of gratitude as he saluted and withdrew, softly muttering to himself: "Thanks to the Holy Virgin for such a prisoner!"

Give the Children Work.

Frederick says that children learn too much of the unformed and formless, and too little work; although the learning by work is immeasurably more impressive and comprehensible, and causes a more living, continuous development in the child.

There is no child, and later no boy and youth, whatever may be his rank or position, who should not daily devote at least one or two hours of earnest activity to the production of some definite outside work.

The present home education, as well as the school education, says a writer, leads the child to bodily inactivity and laziness in respect to work; an immense amount of human power remains thus undeveloped and an immense amount is wholly lost. Give the little folks a part of the home problem to bear and they will be happier, wiser and better.

Wanted More Practice.—"No, Bobby," said his mother, "one piece of pie is quite enough for you." "It's funny," responded Bobby, with an injured air, "you say you are anxious for me to eat properly, and yet you won't even give me a chance to practice."

The Genius of Appreciation.

There are men and women who have a genius for drawing the very best out of all their associates. A sensible nature feels unconsciously the personal atmosphere of another, and the cynic or a satirist shuts up such a nature as completely as the cold or the night closes a sensitive flower. In the presence of a cynic or satirist a sensitive person is dumb and helpless. In a genial and appreciative atmosphere, however, such a nature opens as the flower that was closed open at the touch of the sun. There can be no happier function in life than to act upon people that they think their best, speak their best, and do their best; as there can be nothing more unfortunate than to silence, paralyze and discourage others. The faculty of evoking the best in another is in its way as rare a kind of genius as the genius of expression. It has happened more than once in the history of art that a turbulent, eager and dumb spirit, struggling with itself, has suddenly become clarified and found expression through the hope, faith and love of one of these appreciative natures; and so, appreciation has become the mother of creation. To possess this quality of appreciation one must have a certain purity and elevation of nature. It is impossible to awaken the ideal in others unless we first possess it in our selves; impossible to make others believe in the best and highest things unless we ourselves believe in those things. Unconscious influence is, after all, the greatest and most subtle form of expression. To inspire others when we are not conscious of it, by the mere expression of ourselves, has an element of the divine in it. It is the overflow of a high nature, which, by its mere contact with lesser natures, inspires, builds and enlarges. One may seek this power consciously, by purity of life, by keeping one's mind open to the whole truth, and by a constant endeavor to recognize what is best in others. Nothing was more beautiful in Mr. Emerson's character than the exquisite respect which he paid to every human being. It seemed as if he always expected to receive from every one he met some new message of life, something which should lay him under perpetual obligation. He treated every one not only with courtesy, but with the profound respect which one would accord to the messengers of a king. It was very inspiring to others to receive this sort of attention; but it was pre-eminently beautiful in the man himself, and was the lasting evidence to the nobility of his soul.—The Christian Union.

A Touching Incident.

There are often wells of thought and feeling in childhood, of whose depths parents little dream. We are so accustomed to think of our children's tastes, desires and will as being reflections of our own that we too often forget to study their natures, recognize their individuality, and treat them as sentient beings. With such reflections I listened to the relation of the following touching incident:

A little girl of this city, about ten years of age, was visiting her aunt in the country. They were discussing a certain book, and the aunt remarked: "Your birthday is near; perhaps your mamma will buy it for you for a birthday present."

A tinge of sadness rested on the sweet young face as she quickly answered: "She could give me something else. I would rather have something I would rather have than anything else in the world!"

"Well, I'm sure," said her aunt, "your mamma will get it for you if it does not cost too much."

"It will not cost money," replied the child, "it will not cost anything. But she could not then be persuaded to tell what it was. After a long time the shrinking little spirit said: "Auntie, I will tell you part; it is something she gave me one little brother came. It is just not to do something for that one day; now don't you know?"

The discerning aunt drew the little one to her and asked: "Is it that mamma should not scold you on your birthday?"

A trembling "Yes," and long the dear head rested on the bosom of that loving, patient aunt.

May the reading of this little story do other mothers good as the writing of it has done me good. That mother is a precious woman. I know she loves her little daughter as tenderly as I do mine. She just didn't think how each impatient word was wearing a sore in that sensitive little heart. She didn't think she was robbing her child's future of the sweet memories of a beautiful childhood. She didn't think how she was cramping the powers of a lovely spirit that needed a continual sunshine for their development. Mothers, pause and reflect!—Herald and Press.

Home-made Furniture.

Home-made furniture is rarely successful and more rarely economical. Occasionally a husband or wife has a gift at carpentry, and can do wonders. If the young husband can build furniture so well that he would not hesitate to sell it, with a fair likelihood of getting a purchaser, let him build all he can for his home. It will be good, and of as much comfort to the household as the dainty needle work his wife may have the skill to fashion. But let the ordinary wielder of the hammer, saw and plane beware. The material used will usually cost half enough or more to buy the finished article at a reliable shop. After the furniture is done, and money and strength have been devoted to it, what is the usual result? A "tugged up" article that is rarely comfortable, generally cumbersome, and will come to pieces within a year.

Some Hints to Mothers.

It becomes mothers, from the moment that their children begin to eat solid food, to see that they have meat and vegetables and milk, eggs, fruit, bread and porridges of the unboltheaded, and as little pastry, fine flour bread, and confectionery as possible, in order that they may at once begin secreting the material for sound second teeth, which come under any circumstances, to be sure, but which under hostile circumstances go without long waiting on the order of their going. It is equally necessary to see that the food agrees with the child; for it is not of a kind easily digested, then the gases of its fermentation will rise and injure the teeth, and the heated blood occasioned by indigestion will make diseases of the gums, also hurtful to the teeth, and create more sensitivity, in the nerves to pain and to heat and cold. Alternations of heat and cold, by the way, are the quite as bad for the teeth as indigestion, the delicate enamel being obedient, as every other substance is, to the laws of contraction and expansion, crushing and splitting under the process, and affording opportunity for the beginning of decay by lodgment of food, or even by the entrance of the common air. Thus it is hardly a matter of doubt whether ice-water and ice-cream are not of greater detriment to the teeth, whether good or bad for the stomach, and if hot tea and coffee, or even hot water, are not equally potent for harm.

Nor must the mother, if it can be helped, allow the first teeth to be drawn. Real pain that cannot be allayed—for there was never yet philosopher that could endure the toothache patiently, says Leonardo—is the only thing that should make her yield on this point; as it is right that the fangs of the first milk teeth should be absorbed in their place, and not extracted, after which absorption the little crowns will drop away of themselves.—Harper's Bazar.

That tired feeling now so often heard of, is entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives mental and bodily strength.

Girls Who Make Poor Wives.

I never see a petted, pampered girl who is yielded to in every whim by servants and parents, that I do not sigh with pity for the man who will some day be her husband. It is the worshiped daughter, who has been taught to her whims and wishes are supreme in a household, who makes marriage a failure all her life. She has had her way in things great and small; and when she desired dresses, plate or jewelry, which were beyond the family purse, she carried the day with tears or sulks, or posid as a martyr.

The parents sacrificed and suffered for her sake, hoping finally to see her well married. They carefully hid her faults from her suitors who seek her hand, and she is ever ready with smiles and allurements to win the hearts of men, and the average man is as blind to the faults of a pretty girl as a newly hatched bird is blind to the worms upon its tree about him. He thinks her little pettish ways are mere girlish moods; but when she becomes his wife and reveals her selfish and cruel nature he is grieved and hurt to think that he has been so unkind to him.—Ella Wheeler Wilcox, in Ladies' Home Journal.
