REV. THOMAS DIXON says: "There are fewer Baptists in New York City to-day than there were twenty years ago." We are not prepared to vouch for the accuracy of these figures, but we have long felt that mission work in great cities is too much neglected Then, too, we may greatly help the country. People are drifting into the towns and cities more rapidly than ever before. If they are truly converted before they go, they are safe, but if not, there is great danger. A dollar to State missions may work wonders.

Our suggestion to open a mission in the Argentine Republic has been received with unexpected favor. Commencement at the Seminary. On Thursday evening, June 1st quite a large congregation assembled n the Walnut Street church to witness the closing exercises of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. It had been the earnest expectation of all to have the Commencement in Norton Hall, the new building which has just been completed, but notwithstanding its splendid appearance, we were not permitted to do so.

The Commencement began Tuesday evening, May 30th, with the an nual address before the Broadus Lit erary Society by the Rev. Carter Helm Jones.

The speaker was at his best, and the address was what might have been expected of him on such an occasion. On Wednesday morning came the speech of Dr. J. B. Marvin. Dr. Marvin has long been a warm friend to the Seminary, and being our col lege physician, he took occasion to of that place 900 pounds of home tell the students, in a most intense raised bacon. and practical way, of 'Our secret friends and foes

Thursday morning, after the ad dress by Rev. J. T. Dickinson, of Orange, New Jersey, came the deliv ery of diplomas to the under graduates by the president, Dr. Broadus. He expressed himself as being delighted h the faithful work done during the past session, and that so many of the students had remained to the last day.

Thursday evening, before the hour had arrived, almost every seat in the Walnut Street church had been taken Prayer was offered by Dr. W. Pickard. In fervent emotion, he "rested" the Seminary, with all its work and its hopes for the future, with the God who gave it to our people. OBITUARY.

It is a sad privilege extended to me son, who died at Williams Station, Ala, May 23, 1893 Her death is the sadder because she had no long spell, but was only a little indisposed, and no one had any idea death was near. But it is a gratification to all her loved ones to feel satisfied that she was ready for the Master. How important it is to live right, so that we may die right! She was born Jily 26 1869, and was married to Bro. W H. Anderson about seven years ago. She leaves three sweet little children, the youngest about five months of age It was my happy privilege to baptize sister. Anderson in Nov 1891, into the fellowship of Williams Station Bap tist church. I was her pastor until a short time ago, and I can say truly she was a devoted Christian; and there was an air of pleasure that pervaded her home life which always made me feel welcome. She often asked my advice about her private troubles, and was encouraged to live above them, and trust her Savior. when I pointed her to him for strength. Heart broken husband and mother, we extend to you heartfelt condolence, and may God help you to meet her in heaven. She cannot come little hearts by raising them in the fear of God. Experiments with Ants.

It has been suggested that the ants of each nest have some sign or password by which they recognize one an other. To test this I made some insensible. First I tried chloroform but this was fatal to them, and as therefore they were practically dead, I did not consider the test satis'actory. I decided, therefore, to intoxicate them This was less easy than I ex pected. None of my ants would voluntarily degrade themselves by getting drunk. However, I got over the difficulty by putting them into whiskey for a few moments. The Middle-Aged Woman.

The middle aged woman is the best friend that either the young or the old can have. With the former she is companionable and sympathetic, as her own youth is not so far behind her that she has no appreciation for the sentiment and sorrows of those just starting in life. To the old she represents the embodiment of sturdy sense that has grown out of the follies of girlhood and is to them one who is competent to advise with judgtmen gained from actual experience.

To sum it all up, she is as the fruit that is in its perfection, neither too green nor over-ripe, she is a woman schooled in the ways of the world and able to meet its storms as well as its joys with a sturdy independence that at the same time lacks not one iota of feminine grace and charm, and whether her role be that of wife, maid or widow, she can, if she so wills it, be more attractive in her full development than she ever was in the first bloom of a sentimental girlhood
