The Western Sentinel prints the following: The Times says a Baptist minister of Elkin went to the country to preach a missionary sermon. After he got through he explained the mission cause, and, of course, proposed to take up a collection. He told the congregation if there was one person in that house too poor to pay five cents for this grand cause, to stand up and he would pay it for him. Whereupon the whole congregation immediately arose to their feet. The preacher was domfounded.

The Whole Story. Early hatched pullets got to laying before cold weather and kept laying will be abundantly broody in March, which embles another supply of early hatched chickens, the pullets of which will be laying before cold weather comes on and lay freely all through the winter, giving us another generation of early brooders and more early hatched chickens. The whole story of profitable poultry raising can be summed up in three short rules: (1) Hatch the chickens early; (2) keep them growing so the pullets shall come! to laying maturity before cold weather; (8) keep them laying by good care and good food. The 1st of April is the best time to hatch chickens for fall and win-
