Pastoral Resignations.

NUMBER 44

It is not possible, of course, to formulate any set of rules by which ministers are to be governed in resigning their pastoral charges. Each case has its peculiar bearings, and, therefore, must be settled upon its own merits. We have in mind several thoughts pertaining to this subject, which may possibly be useful in some quarters, and we venture to present them.

1. Pastors ought never to present their resignations impulsively. They ought not to resign in a pour or a fit of despondency. An old minister, who had been pastor of the same church for the was asked now he had and discouraging. Several times he had been on the eve of striking his colors and marching out. But he always decided to wait awhile, hold it over for awhile.

2. Another sensible rule for pastors to adopt is never to be influenced by one disagreeable feature in the situation. We knew a minloved him, but the music demon broke in and excited some friction and discord. The affair would

AT 1 o'clock on Wednesday the Board of Health of Montgomery reported that there had been 121 cases of yellow fever and 9 deaths in the city. The cool weather, with some frost, gives a much more cheerful feeling. Seven new cases were reported for the twenty-four hours ending at the hour above mentioned, but they were not really new cases, as the persons had been sick for a few days before and the physicians had been awaiting developments before reporting. The doctors feel that the worst is over Some physicians advise refugees who ask their opinion that they may safely return if they live in the eastern part of the city, but the Board of Health has declined to give such advice. One observation I have made is that Christ is too often presented to the boy as the "meek and lowly Jesus," and I think this a mistake.

This makes four in number, one in Jacksonville, Fla, one in Columbus, Ga., one in Montgomery, Ala., and now this in Birmingham. President R. W. Massey means business. He deserves the support of the people, and is entitled to great credit for his pluck, grit and success. He has triumphed over many apparently in-surmountable difficulties, and by intelligence and indomitable energy and honesty in his dealings, has gained the victory. His opening in Birmingham was exceedingly gratifying, having registered a large number of pupils. The exercises at the open ing were well attended by the young, and everything passed off in a most delightful and genteel manner.

I have seen no estimate as to the number of copies probably in existence at the present time, but in one year-1888-alone, the statistics for which happen to be at hand, the number of copies issued considerably exceeded the 6,000,000 which were possibly in existence in the whole world in 1800. # dROW THE Mammoth Big Boll Cotton

The results of the work done by the various State Experiment Stations prove conclusively to all intelligent farmers that there is "something" in the KIND of cotton planted-that some varieties will yield larger results than others: For instance, plant two kinds of cotton side by side-all manured and cultivated alike-we see one producing two or three times as much as another. One variety will make 400 pounds to the scre, and another, right by its side, and with the same manure and altivation, produces 1,200 pounds of cotton.
