Published Weekly $2.00 a Year

We are glad to note that the business men and merchants of Clanton closed their places of business on Thanksgiving Day to take part in the union services at the Baptist church.

Sunday, November 19, was a good day with us at Edgewater (Mine Ad). Congregation larger than usual and the collection good. We received one member.—J. W. Jones, East Lake.

The Franklin Times of Thursday, November 23, was a splendid specimen of a weekly. It was full of news, and the make-up was excellent. We congratulate Editor Norwood.

The Baptist Ladies' Aid Society of the Russellville Baptist church entertained on Friday evening, the 24th, from 7 to 10 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hutcherson with a "Seven Cent Supper." Each course was 7 cents. From the menu some Russellvillians got a bargain.

Rev. R. L. Wyatt, pastor of Midway church, filled his regular appointment Sunday morning and evening. He had very attentive congregations, and the people seemed to be very much moved after listening to his discourse. Had three additions to the church Sunday. Have a good Sunday school and prayer meetings.—L. L. Allison, Short Creek.

We are glad to chronicle the convalescence of Evangelist A. A. Walker, who, together with his entire family have been confined to bed for the past two weeks. Our latest advice is to the effect that they are all on the road to recovery now and that he will soon be able to take up his work again.

Mrs. Sarah Serena Hunter Pugh, widow of the late James L. Pugh, formerly of Eufaula, and United States senator from Alabama, died Wednesday morning, November 22, at 8:20 o'clock at the home of her son, Edward L. Pugh, of Washington, D. C. She was buried at Eufaula by the side of her husband in Fairview cemetery. We sympathize with the bereaved family.

A beautiful home wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents near Hanceville on November 22 between Mr. Fred Kellar and Miss Hattie Candell, the writer officiating. Mr. Kellar is a prosperous young farmer, and Mr. and Mrs. Kellar are very active members of Hopewell Baptist church. May God's richest blessings attend this couple through life's journey.—J. E. Creel, Bangor.

We had a good association this year; a good increase by baptism. Brother H. C. Bradley will travel as missionary in the Blount County Association this year. I have four churches in charge this year, with 389 members, and I need your prayers in my work. If you will send me a few sample copies I might help you. Yours respectfully—L. T. Fendley, Oneonta.

The Religious Paper and the Church

W. T. McElroy, in the Standard, says:

"The relation of the religious paper to the church as a whole is one of great usefulness and responsibility. Without the religious paper the church could not be what it is today, and it is equally true that without the church there could be no religious paper. One of the principal benefits of the paper to the church is that the reading of it makes the members more intelligent and more earnest workers for the church and its causes. Any important event that occurs in one section of the church is known the next week throughout the whole body. Interest is thus stimulated and enthusiasm is rekindled. When one feels the throb of the whole church he finds courage to do his part in one small branch better and more earnestly. He will read of the progress being made in converting the heathen world, of the attitude of foreign governments toward the movement and the many obstacles that are encountered, of the influx of ignorant immigrants into his own land and the means adopted to reach them with the gospel, of our bounden duty to deal justly with our native Indian wards or the negro race, of the possible entanglements with the yellow men of the far east, of the efforts made by our government to promote peace among the nations of the earth; and he is seized with a new and greater desire to do his part or more in the great work."

This being true, won't you please say a good word for the Alabama Baptist and get some friend to subscribe for it? Use the cards we sent you for this purpose. Get your friends started at once, so that they will have the paper to read through the new year.

The Barada class of the Fifty-sixth Street Baptist church gave a banquet Tuesday evening, November 14, at the church. A special program had been arranged for the occasion, which was carried out in detail. Addresses were made by H. F. Davis, J. B. Gibson and Prof. R. A. Clayton.

On account of the absence of Rev. J. M. Gilmore, Rev. A. J. Kempton took his place at the Ridge Baptist church Sunday morning, November 19. He also occupied the pulpit at Monroeville Sunday morning and evening, November 26. As no special Thanksgiving services had been arranged Brother Kempton adapted the morning service to that glad occasion.

I am going to call public attention to and urge the claims of the Alabama Baptist before my congregation tomorrow, as I do occasionally. We pastors are amply repaid for all the work we do for the paper in the increased efficiency of those who we get to read the paper.—A. T. Sims.

We have a small church here. Have a Ladies' Aid Society. We will have a union Thanksgiving dinner at the school house. Rev. E. B. Moore, of Gadsden, will preach a Thanksgiving sermon at the Baptist church, and then the dinner. Our pastor is Mr. Palmer. Yours with good wishes—Mrs. Wm. F. Jones, Steele, Ala.

The service at the Baptist church Sunday morning, November 19, at 11 o'clock was of unusual interest. Two new deacons, Messrs. H. T. Matthews and J. A. Jeffers, were ordained by Revs. F. H. Farrington and A. S. Brannan. The ordination sermon was delivered by the latter, and was a strong discourse. In the evening Mr. Brannan again occupied the pulpit and spoke upon the subject of repentance, making a very practical presentation of the subject.—Roanoke Leader.

I am in Howard College. The boys here are working hard. I always enjoy reading the Baptist. Brother Johnson, from Louisiana, preaches here tonight. We have a fine Y. M. C. A. here and an interesting class of young ministers. Wishing you much success, fraternally—S. A. Taylor.

Gipsy Smith closed his series of meetings at Seattle on November 5. It is estimated that 150,000 persons heard his sermons. The offerings amounted to $6,798, sent to the Free Church Council of England; the evangelist receives a flat yearly salary of $3,000 and expenses. More than 4,000 persons signed cards at Seattle.

Dr. James T. Dickinson, after an eminently successful pastorate of more than eight years of the First church, of Rochester, N. Y., on November 5 presented his resignation, requesting that it become effective December 31. After 25 years of continuous service in the pastorate Dr. Dickinson feels the need of a period of rest, travel and meditation. His resignation is greatly regretted by the church.—The Standard.

The Presbyterians in Athens immerse infants just as the Greek priests do. So says Rev. Sakellarios, who has charge of the Baptist work in Athens. He says that "they once sprinkled some children, and it created such a scandal that it came near breaking up the church, and they were compelled to have a small baptistry made. The adult Greeks are received in the Greek church. The Greeks know the meaning of the word "baptidzo," and our Presbyterian friends are forced to accept its true meaning when they go up against the scholarship of the world. John Calvin, in 1536: "The very word baptize, however, signifies to immerse; and it is certain that immersion was observed in the ancient church."—Baptist Chronicle.

Rev. George E. Brewer, of Montgomery, called in to see us last week. He is the last living member of the legislature of 1857-8-9-60.

Rev. L. M. Stone is now living at 1027 1-2 Twenty-fourth street, North, Birmingham, Ala., and is ready to do supply work or serve churches in the adjacent territory.

John Ruskin said in one of his lectures to the students of the University of Oxford: "We can make many allowances and put up with a great deal of youthful nonsense in various directions, but no man has any business to be an ass."

Please change my paper from 1310 Avenue I, Birmingham, Ala., to Greensboro, Ala. I have accepted work here, and am already on the field. Yours—J. A. Beal.

We rejoice that our friend and brother, Jared White, the honored editor of the Moulton Advertiser, who for 56 years has been associated with it for the uplift of his community, after a severe illness, is well again. Long may he live to fight for civic betterment is our prayer.

In looking over the "Shorter College" edition of the Christian Index we found two familiar faces—Brethren A. B. Metcalfe and I. A. White, the former being pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, Rome, and the latter serving the South Broad Street church, Rome. We congratulate the Index on the splendid edition.

The day of inferior Baptist papers is passing, and ought to pass. With an increase in numbers, in wealth and intelligence the question should be "not how cheap, but how good." Help us in our effort to improve the Alabama Baptist by sending in news items.

We extend a hearty welcome to Rev. W. A. Lusk, the new pastor at Rayville. We knew Brother Lusk in Mississippi, having succeeded him at Indianola. He is a sound Baptist and a strong gospel preacher and valuable accession to our ministry. May the Lord bless his labors in his new field.—Baptist Chronicle.

Thanksgiving services will be held in the Methodist church this year, and Rev. A. J. Moncrief, former pastor of the Baptist church of this city, will preach the sermon. Services will begin at 11 o'clock. As usual a special collection will be taken for the associated charities of the city.—Union Springs Herald.

The Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York City, is undertaking to secure an endowment of $500,000 to provide against the abandonment of their property when it becomes, by the extension of the business district, a downtown church.

THE CHINESE REPUBLIC.

The following appeal signed by Wu Ting Fang, the new director of foreign affairs in China, breathes the budding hopes of the new republic. It is transmitted to the civilized world as from "one who is a lover of liberty, who is ever courageous in fighting the battle of the oppressed." Here is the appeal:

"The Chinese nation, born anew in the travail of revolution, extends friendly greetings and felicitations to the whole world. The republic of China now asks such recognition by the civilized powers as will enable it, with the assistance of their kindly offices, to erect upon the foundation of honest government and friendly trade and intercourse with all peoples a peaceful, happy future. The Chinese people are not untried in self-government. For countless ages they ruled themselves and developed an observance of the law to a degree not known among other races. They developed the arts, industries and agriculture and knew peace and contentment surpassingly sweet. Down upon them swept the savage hordes of an alien, warlike race. The Chinese people were conquered and enslaved. For 270 years this bondage existed. Then the Chinese people arose and struck this blow for freedom. Out of the chaos and dust of the falling throne emerges a free and enlightened people, a great natural democracy of 400,000,000 human beings. They have chosen to set up a republic. Their choice we believe a wise one. No class nobility among the Chinese, no recognized royal family to set up in place of the departing Manchu royal house. This is a great democracy. Officials spring from among the people and to the people will return. No princes lords or dukes among the Chinese. With the Manchu throne removed there is left a made-to-order republic. Already we have provincial assemblies and a national assembly. Already we have a republic with a full set of competent officials. Within a few days the constitutional convention will meet. Arrangements for it were made long ago. At the convention will be fully authorized delegates from every province. A constitution of the most enlightened character will be adopted and new officers of the provisional government elected. The following will come, under the provisions of the constitution, provincial national elections. It is imperative that our government be recognized at this time in order that business may not be subjected to prolonged stagnation. Peace prevails everywhere save at Hankow, but business cannot proceed until the new republic is welcomed among the nations of the world. We ask recognition that we may enter upon new life and new relationship with the great powers. We ask recognition of the republic because the republic is a fact. Fourteen of the eighteen provinces have declared independence of the Manchu government and promulgated allegiance to the republic. The remaining provinces will, it is expected, soon take the same course. The Manchu dynasty finds its power fallen away. Its glitter of yesterday becomes a puppet show. Before going it stripped itself of all authority by consenting to the terms of the proposed constitution already made public. The most glorious page in Chinese history has been written with a bloodless pen."

A NEGLECTED DENOMINATIONAL ASSET ONCE MORE.

Dr. E. E. Folk has been writing some strong editorials recently under the above caption. We give his last one. We like Tennessee Baptists will come to his assistance.

"The question might come, What are we after in the several editorials we have written on this subject? That question can be easily answered.

1. We should like for the Baptists of Tennessee to realize that the Baptist and Reflector is an asset, and to appreciate it as such. Many of them do now, but a good many others do not.

2. We should like for them to understand that it is a neglected asset. Neglected by many pastors, who fail to say or do anything to increase its efficiency as an asset; neglected by many Baptists, who fail to subscribe for it and read it; neglected by many to whom its columns are freely given whenever opportunity offers, but who fail to do anything for the paper in return. There is such a thing, you know, as riding a free horse to death, and there is such a thing as killing the goose that lays the golden egg. Such a fate is liable to occur to all of our denominational papers, including the Baptist and Reflector. "Blessings brighten as they take their flight." If there were no denominational paper in the State like the Baptist and Reflector, we believe the Baptists of Tennessee would realize the importance of having such a paper. But they have got so accustomed to having it that they seem to have taken it as a matter of course and many of them have become indifferent to its interests. These editorials are intended to arouse them out of their indifference, if possible, before it is too late.

3. We want them to use this asset to the best advantage. We believe that the more it is used then the larger will be the value to be received from it. In other words, the more subscribers there are to the Baptist and Reflector, then naturally the more readers there will be. The more readers there are the more people will know about or denominational work, the more interested in it they will be. The more interested in it they are, the more they will be apt to contribute to it.

Instead, then, of the Baptist and Reflector being a neglected denominational asset, why not make it a used, and consequently more useful, denominational asset. Why should an asset which could be made so valuable be neglected at all? Let us have a revival of reading our denominational papers, and then there will be a revival not only of belief in our denominational doctrines, but of contributions to our denominational work. Will you not join in the movement?"

TRIP NOTES.

For several weeks this scribe has been suffering with a cold and cough that has eclipsed any he has ever had before and he has had some he thought were severe. My doctor ordered me to rest my voice for about two weeks, but I did not see how I could let go at the present time. Disregarding his advice I went to Greenville to be with Brother L. L. Gwaltney on Sunday morning November 19th. I had planned to go from there Sunday afternoon to Andalusia to be with Brother Hagood at his night service, but at the close of the morning service at Greenville I was so hoarse and otherwise so thoroughly unfitted for preaching that I phoned Brother Hagood that it would not be possible for me to fill my engagement with him that night and I came home. Since then I have been nursing my cold and cough hoping to be ready for full service in a few days, but improvement has not been rapid.

Our Commission is very much in need of the cooperation of the pastors all over the state. It is utterly impossible for the secretary to reach any considerable number of our churches during the year and yet practically very little money is coming in for our schools that the secretary does not personally solicit. If Brother Crumpton received for state missions only the money that he personally appeals for in the churches our state mission work would be in a bad fix. Our schools are in need and are worthy of the support of all our churches, and if the pastors do not rally to their support better than they have been doing, we cannot expect them to make much progress. The counties that have denominational education for December according to the schedule, are Baldwin, Escambia, Monroe, Conecuh, Wilcox, Dallas and Chilton. Will not the pastors in these counties see that an earnest appeal is made to their people for our cause some time during the month.

W. J. E. COX.

Rev. George H. Freeman, the new pastor of the Baptist church, arrived in the city Saturday, and Sunday night preached a very able sermon to a good size congregation. Rev. Freeman will not be able to give his full time to the church until about the 1st of December, as he has to serve his old charge until after the fourth Sunday, though he will be able to preach to the Russellville congregation on the third Sunday in the month, both morning and evening.—Franklin Times.

HOMICIDE IN ALABAMA.

I have often said that human life is a very cheap thing in the south and especially in Alabama. Recently I read an editorial in the Birmingham News on "Alabama Can Learn From Virginia." The editorial was suggested by Virginia's conduct in dealing with young Beattie who was sentenced to death for the murder of his wife. A strong and striking contrast was drawn between the action of the courts in dealing with this case and the action of the courts in Alabama in dealing with similar cases. The editorial cannot fail to impress every resident of the state who reads it.

The editorial says that one startling result of the general procedure of the courts in Alabama "is that there have been 162 homicides in Jefferson county in the past year!"

The editorial closes by saying: "Should not Alabama as a state seriously consider her defects in her criminal legal procedure? Should not Jefferson county, the biggest sufferer by lax methods, lead in a reform movement? Will not the bar again assist in this undertaking in which it has frequently filed?"

"A change can be made. A change must be made. Let every good citizen, let every preacher of righteousness so decree, so preach, and the thing will be done."

I have said that I would rather be tried in Alabama for homicide than for horse stealing and I am still of that opinion.

The day following that on which I read the editorial referred to above I read another editorial in a Chattanooga paper on "Homicide Here and Abroad," based on a statement made by Judge DeCouncey of the superior court of Massachusetts. Judge DeCouncey stated that the rate of homicide to the million of population in this country was 118, whereas in Italy it was less than fifteen; in Canada, thirteen; in Great Britain, nine, and in Germany, less than five. Human life seems to be cheaper in the south than it is in the north, and cheaper in this country than in any European country.

Judge DeCouncey also stated that the percentage of convictions in the United States was humiliatingly low compared with other countries. New York had 319 murders during the year, and only forty-five convictions, while in London, for the same period there were only nineteen murders, five of the murderers committed suicide, ten were arrested and convicted and only four escaped.

These are alarming facts and deserve the attention of our people in general. Who of us are responsible for this state of things? There is widespread disregard for many laws in our state. In many cases conviction is not secured where the evidence is very plain, because the jurors disregard their oaths. I believe that the newspapers are in no small measure responsible for the condition referred to, by so often emphasizing the statement that it is not possible to secure conviction for violation of a law where the community does not sanction the law. Violation of our prohibition laws are really made light of by many of the newspapers and such violations breed contempt for all laws; laws against homicide included. When a citizen can violate his oath in acquitting one who is plainly guilty of violating a prohibition law it will not be difficult for him to violate his oath and acquit or be very light on one who has violated the law against homicide.

THE COTTON SITUATION AS VIEWED BY HEFLIN

Extracts from Congressman Heflin's speech on cotton at Montgomery, Ala., before the Water Ways Convention, Nov. 21st, 1911.

Mr. Heflin said: The southern people have not fully realized and appreciated the value and importances of the cotton crop, nor have they realized the power that they possess to fix the price of cotton.

The high cost of living and the increased cost of agricultural implements and of fertilizers and the increased cost of live stock, and in fact everything that enters into the cost of production of cotton, make it absolutely necessary for the farmer to receive 14 1-2 and 15 cents for this cotton crop.

If you leave out of consideration the cost of production, any fair minded man will agree that in view of the average price that obtains on all manufactured cotton goods, the producer is justified in demanding even more than 15 cents per pound for this cotton crop.

Cotton goods commonly used have increased in price as high to the consumer as 95 and up to 171 per cent in ten years.

Mr. Franklin W. Hobbs, President of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers of the United States, in a speech to that body at Manchester, Vt., Sept. 27, 1911, made several significant and startling statements.

He said that the New England and other cotton mill business had been dull for the last six months, and he placed the blame principally on what he called the high price of cotton. The New England manufacturer as well as all other manufacturers in America paid 14 1-2 and 15 cents per pound for the last two cotton crops and during nine tenths of that period the cotton goods trade was excellent, and I am curious to know why the price of raw cotton did not figure materially during that time.

The 1910 cotton crop was short and the mills did not have the cotton to spin is why they did not run.

In the Bank and Trust Co. circular for 1911, published in Boston by Turner, Tucker & Co., the story of the prosperity of the New England cotton mills is told. For instance, the Massachusetts cotton mills at Lowell with a capital stock of $1,800,000 had in February a surplus of $1,859,000 and the circular says: "During the last 12 years the mills of this company have been practically rebuilt. The funds being derived from the excess earnings over and above the dividends," and at the same time the surplus was greatly increased. It is said that the New England cotton spinner receives for the finished product of every bale of cotton that he manufactures from $350 to $800.

If this is true and I think these figures are conservative at an average of $350 per bale the New England spinner would receive more than the southern farmer will receive at the present price for his entire crop of 13,000,000 bales of cotton.

The New England spinner is not content with his tremendous profits and he is now in a conspiracy with the bear speculator to reduce the price of cotton below the cost of production.

The New England spinner and all others having paid about 15 cents per pound for the last two crops have based their contracts for goods to be made from this crop on 14 1-2 and 15 cent cotton.

In a tariff bulletin presented to the lower House of Congress in June this year by the association of which Mr. Hobbs is a member is a statement which was intended to lead Congress to believe that the cotton spinner would have to pay 15 cents per pound for this crop, and I believe that they expected to pay that price.

Cotton is selling much lower than the manufacturer ever expected to see it this season and nobody is more surprised than he, at the way our people have sold, and when we quit selling and demand 15 cents per pound for the remainder of this crop it will be no more than he expected us as intelligent men to do. Our failure to do this sooner is the greatest and most pleasing surprise that has come to the spinner this season. For the first time in five years our people have sold on a declining market.

If you have sold your cotton and are able please send back dues, but if you are holding we will gladly wait on you. Just treat us right.

Four years ago when the price would break, our people would quit selling and the price would immediately go up again. This was the case up to and including last year. If the same course had been pursued by our farmers this year cotton would now bring 14 and 15 cents per pound.

Now the world's supply of old cotton is the smallest it has been in forty years, and the flax crop of the world is short, inadequate to supply the linen industry which will increase the demand for our cotton, and when the cotton crop of India is short and when New England cotton goods are selling at prices that warrant 35 cents per pound and more for raw cotton, a 14,500,000 bale crop is not a large crop of cotton, nor 15 cents per pound an unreasonable price.

I make the prediction now that the world's supply of cotton this year will not be sufficient to meet the world's demands. The crop is short in India and the daily Consular trade reports for Sept. 12, 1911 predict that the price will go even higher than it did last year, even if a big crop is made in America.

But they tell us that the cotton mills in America consumed according to the report made by the manufacturers themselves, a few thousand bales of cotton less this year than last year. If this is true, why should the cotton producer be punished with the present low and ruinous prices, or why should this argument even be used in the face of the fact that foreign spinners bought and consumed a million and a quarter more bales of American cotton last year than the year before. More cotton per spindle was consumed in England and the United Kingdom last year than the year before. The largest item last year and this year in Germany's export trade was cotton goods. And Germany buys two thirds of her raw cotton from us. But they tell us that American cotton goods trade has fallen off with China and Japan and this is used as an argument as to why the producer should sell cotton cheaply. England the greatest cotton manufacturing country in the world buys more than four-fifths of her raw cotton from us, and England's cotton goods trade has increased with China and Japan and the increase with both countries will more than double the loss in trade to the American cotton mills. Where ever the American cotton goods trade has fallen off, England, France and Germany have increased their sales and these three countries buy the bulk of their cotton from us. If we should make 14,000,000 bales it would be only a half million more than the crop of 1906, and since that time the consumption of cotton has greatly increased. The automobile and cement industries have developed marvelously since that crop, and it is estimated that they consume in tops and tires and sacks 400,000 or 500,000 bales of cotton. Again it is estimated that it will require 200,000 bales to make cotton sacks enough to hold the cement necessary to complete the Panama Canal.

Cotton is being put to more uses than ever before.

The demand for cotton is increasing and cotton is being substituted for linen silk and wool, but neither one of these is substituted for cotton. There are 26,000,000 of people in Europe absolutely dependent upon the cotton mill industry for which the south furnishes raw material. The 141,000,000 spindles in the world today must look mainly to us for their supply of raw cotton.

The men who have at great labor and expense made cotton with which to feed the spindles of the world, are now being robbed of the fruits of their toil. At the present price as compared with the price received by the farmer for the last two crops, he is losing $30 per bale, and on a 13,000,000 bale crop the farmers of the south will lose $390,000,000. There is no just reason why cotton should sell at the ruinous prices now obtaining. Every pound of this crop placed upon the market at the present price is a sacrifice of property and is a weapon placed in the hands of bear gamblers to beat the price still lower.

The farmer making 15 bales of cotton expecting to receive about 15 cents—$75.00 per bale and $1,125 for his crop, is now receiving about 9 cents—$45.00 per bale and $675 for his crop.

The present price does not afford the farmer a profit. His plans are all upset and he is being systematically robbed. At the present price, the farmers of my county will lose $1,050,000 on this crop. Alabama will lose $34,300,000 and the south will lose as I said before $390,000,000. A glimpse at these figures is enough to arouse every man who believes in the justice to the farmers and who loves the south, and cause him to do everything in his power to help in the movement to secure better prices for the remainder of this cotton crop. The spinners have very little of this crop and remember that they are compelled to have all of it if their mills continue to operate.

The farmer could refuse to plant any cotton next year and he could grow corn and hay and raise stock and other things and prosper, but the spinner must have cotton for his mills or they must stand idle. And when they stand idle his income stops, and millions of people are thrown out of employment. So the farmer, if he but knew it, is the master of the situation.

I cannot believe that much more of this cotton crop will be sacrificed at the prices now prevailing. For the last six years cotton at some time during the selling season has sold above 12 cents per pound and the cotton crop of 1906, five years ago sold as high as 13 5-8 cents per pound and the last two crops brought 14 1-2 and 15 cents per pound.

CHURCHLESS PASTOR AGAIN.

Some of our brethren are complaining that the number of young men entering the ministry is discouraging and that other walks of life are more inviting, hence they are turning from the preaching of the Gospel and following other lines of work. We are continually hearing some good old brother pray "Lord send more laborers into the harvest," and while he is making this request there are hundreds of most splendid young men, able men, well qualified and equipped for this service but our churches are in many instances closed against them. Let us use these whom the Lord has already called into the field and then he will supply the lack.

I have the names of more than a dozen good preachers now on my files asking that I help them into work. Some of our churches need these men and they are available right now. Let me have a card from you who need to be put in touch with a good man and I will send you the name of some that will be glad to locate on your field and will do effective service.

Its all well and good to pray for more laborers but I believe in making use of these we have already. God bless dear old Alabama in her struggle for righteousness and purity.

Yours for service,
A. A. WALKER,
Missionary-Evangelist.

THANKSGIVING SCRIPTURE VERSE.

Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power. Rev. 4.2.

Rev. Alvin E. Page, the new pastor of the First Baptist church, is a native of Alabama, a graduate of Howard College, with the A. B. degree, attended the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary for two years, was pastor of two churches in Alabama, one being the East Birmingham church, where a new house of worship was erected during his pastorate. For a time he was field secretary of the Alabama Anti-Saloon League. For the last year he has been doing the work of an evangelist, with marked success. He means business, and the church will do well to follow his leadership.—Christian Commonwealth.

A very successful revival meeting closed last Friday night at the Point Pleasant Baptist church, North Brewton. The meeting commenced on Saturday night, October 31, and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. L. Taylor, assisted by Rev. W. M. Murray. The meeting resulted in 19 accessions to the church—14 by baptism and five by letter. The candidates were baptized at Smith Ford, on Burnt Corn creek, on Friday evening. Point Pleasant church has been built and paid for, has had a pastor only nine months and has a membership of 73. The church ranks second in giving to more objects and third in giving to the cause.—Pine Belt News.

The charge that property used for prostitution was controlled by President J. J. Mitchell, of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, brought an immediate denial with the accompanying statement: "Any business man who would rent his property as a house of prostitution is not living up to a decent moral standard. It is not sufficient excuse to be ignorant. Whenever our bank hears the slightest complaint that any of our houses, either owned by us or for which we are agents, is being used for immoral purposes, we employ detectives to find out the truth, and, if everything is not above suspicion, we eject the tenants, even at the risk of a suit for damages."

How good it is to be back in the home and at my work! Blessings on work! How can idlers stand it with nothing to do? Lately when I said to a busy doctor, "You are going at a great rush. How long will you last at the rate you are going?" he replied: "I love my profession. I hear men talk of going off to take recreation. My work is my recreation."

Only the other day a lawyer expressed himself thus: "I love the work in my office. I am eager to get to it every morning. When a man is slow getting to his work and indifferent when he gets there it is because he does not love his business."

Brother preacher, or brother anybody else, the words of this doctor and lawyer are worth studying "The kingdom of heaven suffereth violence and the violent take it by force." Doesn't that mean those who are read in earnest get there? Of course they must have good sense and prudence with their zeal.

I Have Kept Up With the Papers

Pretty well for these weeks. It made me glad to see where one of the associations gave you 75 subscribers and another maybe 67. I take it there was no hokus-pokus about that—nothing but yearly subscriptions, no just for three months or "I'll take it on trial." I have had experience with this matter for years and think I know some things. The temporary, make-shift subscribers are no good. If the pastors are taking hold with you they will not only get you new subscribers at the associations, but through the year, and they will help you keep them.

Now, Brother Editor,

Don't allow it all to come your way. Remember, the Lord has said: "It is more blessed to give than to receive." You owe it to yourself and to your constituents to give us the best paper you possibly can. You are doing well, but you can do better. You have been promising it. Now fulfill the promise. I believe you will.

I was proud to read that

Strong Endorsement of Brother Bateman
Of Strickland and his work. That sounds like business. Good for one of the imported! A good example for the natives. You watch Bateman and see if he don't make good, not only at Troy, but every place he touches. I was at his installation service, and I knew then we had a man in him worth while.

That Leads Me to Say of Strickland's Sunday School Work:

How he is taking wherever he goes! He wants to enlarge the work. I believe in him and the work he is doing with all my heart. He is going down to do foundation work. If we can successfully press this work for five years we are going to see a great change in the character of the membership of our churches. Will the superintendents and pastors help us before their schools to get the needed funds to support the enlarged work? I believe they will.

That Church at Guntersville.

I have heard of numbers of superintendents who are going to give heed to the call of Brother Mack Kilcrease for this struggling little band in The Only County Seat in Alabama Without a Baptist Church!

Can't we all lay hold now and make it go? I am by Thanksgiving.

sending $5 of the Lord's tithe today for myself and wife. Reader, don't put it off, but "do it now." It will make the heart of this young lawyer glad and his people happy, and you will feel better for having helped.

I Want to Submit a Puzzle. Somebody Help Me to Unravel It!

All honor to the men we have in our pulpits from other states. They are making good, and I am the last man to put a straw in the way of their coming, or of their work after they come; but let me state a fact: I am often asked for the addresses of men who might be had to fill vacant pulpits. Of course I comply with the request. I have the names of men out of the state and men in the state who, for one reason or another, want to change fields. I give with each name all the information I may have, references, etc. Some of them are natives of Alabama, graduates of Howard College and maybe of the seminary. They may have been eminently successful as preachers wherever they have been. Of course this is all given.

It is Very Seldom the Alabamian is Called.

We lose some of our brightest and best Alabama men every year, who go to other states and take important pastorates and do well. Their preference was to remain in their native state, but, alas, "Nobody hath hired us" is their sad complaint. I know some native Alabamians right now—fine fellows they are, too—who are almost dying to come home from other states. Time and again their names have been given to pastorless churches, but they are not considered. I wonder if it is true of other states? Maybe it is and maybe it is as it should be. I only raise the question as a curious puzzle to me.

W. B. CRUMPTON

SOLILOQUY OF A CONTEMPLATIVE HOBBLER.

By Harvey Peaks.

To hobble or not to hobble: that is the question.
Whether 'tis nobler to suffer,
Or to take up arms against a sea of idiotic styles,
And, by opposing them, be called a back number?
To try to walk; to fall; no more;
And by a fall to say we end
The desire for anything so extremely silly
As a hobble skirt. 'Tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. To try to walk, to fall;
Perchance to be knocked senseless,
Ay, there's the rub!
For in that senseless state what dreams may come
Of fashions even worse, if that can be!
A skirt for just a single leg, for instance.
There's the prospect that makes
Of fashion a calamity!
For who would bear the scars of fashion,
The broken ankle, the compressed hip,
The attenuated chest, the pinched foot,
And the mad hatin's menace, that Takes upon itself the office
Of a bare bedkin?
Who would Chinese collures bear
And grunt and sweat under a ten pound hat,
But for the dread of somebody saying afterwards,
"Oh, isn't she the old-fashioned one?"
And make us rather bear those ills
Than fly to criticism that we are afraid of?
Thus fashion doth make cowards of us all.

—From Judge's Library.

A four-year-old child recently died in Philadelphia of a disease which, while exceedingly rare, is not new in the annals of medicine. The disease is known as hemophilia, and causes the victim to bleed to death from a very slight wound. The disease was discovered in the twelfth century by an Arabian physician, who called those who suffered from it "the bleeders". Practically little more is known today of this disease than was discovered by the Arabian physician who first found it, and in many cases the scientific treatment administered is as ineffectual as that crude form practiced almost one thousand years ago.

Battling the Bighorn.

The Bighorn District as described in this, the sixth book of the well-known Aeroplane Boys Series by Ashton Lamar, will prove of great interest to boys of all ages, and Battling the Bighorn is undoubtedly a novel presentation of the possibilities of sporting aviation. Frank Graham and Phil Ewing, living in a hustling manufacturing town in Michigan, construct an aeroplane, a feature of which is a small, closed aluminum cabin. When tried out the machine is caught in a desperate rain storm, but battles successfully against the elements. The Rocky Mountains of South British Columbia offer one of the greatest game shooting districts in the world. Battling the Bighorn is full of accounts of the wonders of this "hunter's paradise," and the details of the hunting and fishing are accurate. The real glory of the tale surrounds Husha the Black Ram, nicknamed "Old Baldy". He fights to his last breath, but he does not meet his death in the usual way, as the boys have the "buck ague" and never fire a shot other than the snapshot of a camera.

The Oak Street Boys' Club

By Warren L. Eldred

The "gang" spirit in boys is becoming better recognized and understood, and boys' clubs are a distinct and growing feature of modern life. Mr. Eldred, who for years has been in charge of boys' work in connection with Puritan Church, Brooklyn, has also established his fame as a writer of very popular books for boys, which are more than merely entertaining. In this one he tells of rival clubs in the same parish, and of the triumph of common sense and business-like methods over jealousy and intrigue, though in the face of great odds. The power to be exerted by one boy possessing the qualities of a leader and the value of having such a boy on the right side are strikingly shown. The varied activities of the young members make an interesting story for boys, while the incidental lessons to be drawn render the book worthy the attention of older readers.

The Wonder Lady.

By Ella Lowery Moseley

This is the kind of a book that makes a direct and simple appeal to your heart, while at the same time constantly amusing and surprising you.

The "Wonder Lady" is the affectionate name given by poor children to a most attractive, but very mysterious young lady who does a vast amount of good. A skillful and devoted young physician is continually finding tantalizing traces of her until he is almost ready to give up his nicely pre-arranged marriage. But with this he must give up the fortune he so earnestly desires for founding a hospital for children, all for the love of the unknown fascinating friend of the poor little ones to whom he ministers. What a dilemma! What would you have done in his place? You will be sure to find out what Dr. Marsh did if you ever begin the book, and you will not blame him, either. 12mo. Cloth Illustrated by John Goss. Net. $1.00. Postpaid, $1.10.

English Political Institutions.

Every serious student of American politics will welcome this authoritative volume by J. A. R. Marriott, M. A., lecturer and tutor in modern history and political science at Worcester College, Oxford, Eng. This book is intended as an introduction to the study of English politics, but its scope is virtually limited to one section of the subject. It deals only with the structure of the state and the functions of the several organs of government. With abstract political philosophy it is not concerned, nor will there be found here any discussion of the conception or the functions of the state in general. The authors primary object has been to set forth the actual working of the English constitution of to-day, and to do so with constant reference to the history of the past. His work has been well done.

By Al Priddy

The Autobiography of a Boy Laborer. An extraordinary human document. Not since "Up from Slavery" and "The Making of an American" has such a remarkable autobiography been offered. It is intensely human, rich in humor, and honest in pathos. It possesses in large measure the manner and attraction of fiction while it is absolutely true. It is the autobiography of Al Priddy, who began work in a mill as a child. In a style which suggests the methods of Dickens and De Morgan, he tells of the abuses of the child labor, the viciousness of the mill boy gang, the dramatic incidents of a great strike, and the tragedy and comedy of mill life, all as seen by a lad who has "gone through the mill" literally and figuratively. The story takes Al through varied adventures and ends with his successful struggle to obtain a preparation for school and professional life. As the author says: "While there have been innumerable objective reports concerning the life of the child laborer, the atmosphere of the mill life can be reproduced only by one who has breathed it." Several chapters of this book have already been published in "The Outlook," where they attracted wide spread attention. The present work is greatly enlarged and contains additional chapters and many incidents and stories which did not appear in the serial publication.

Chosen Days in Scotland.

By Josephine Helena Short.

The chapters of this book, taken in their order form a comprehensive guide to a tour of the Border region, Edinburgh, Lothian, Glasgow, the Highlands and Lakes, and points in the north and west having an interest historical or romantic. An account of a visit to the Orkneys and the Isle of Skye, off the usual route of the tourist, contributes toward giving this work a wholly unique place in the literature on Scotland.

"The Unmannerly Tiger and Other Korean Tales."

By William Elliot Griffis

"The Unmannerly Tiger and Other Korean Tales" is the last of a series of books for children derived from Oriental sources. It is a book with fresh stories about people of whose children we have known very little. The tales with Dr. Griffis has embodied in this book of a magpie who built bridges, of rabbits who outwit the tiger, are interesting enough but even more amusing are the love affairs of the earthworm, Mr. Wum and his bride, Miss Thousand Legs; of Miss Mole, whom Daddy Mole wished to mate with the Sun, and of the frog who married the most beautiful girl in Korea.

This is a good book for children. They will enjoy the tales and the pictures.

Sunday School Essentials.

What every Sunday School teacher and superintendent needs the most in order to win success. By Amos R. Wells. 253 pp. Cloth. $1.00.

Many practical themes are discussed in a very practical way. The book meets the need of the teacher who wants to know just how to grip the attention of his class and hold the interest. There are also chapters of especial value to superintendents.

This is a book of theories about the Sunday school, but it comes right out of the life of a busy, practical, longtime worker in the Sunday school, eager to tell other workers about what he has found helpful in teaching and holding his pupils.

Professor Wells has written much for the Sunday school, but this is his latest and best book, the ripe fruit of his fullest experience and richest thought.

"Satan or Christ."

A book representing the conflict now raging between "Evil and Good" in the home, in the church, in business, in every walk of life. By Rev. I. Mench Chambers, A. M., author of "At The Beautiful Gate" "On the Sunny Side," etc. The most powerful allegory since Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress. A fearless piece of imaginative literature, wrought out with excellent judgment and skill. Its scenes and occasions are intensely interesting. The author is thoroughly at home. His delineation of Satan's continuously operative personality is a masterpiece of writing. A masterly analysis of twentieth century conditions, in which the author boldly attacks the sins within the church, the lax morals of society and the religious indifference in the home. A vivid presentation of the wiles and snares of Satan to draw men, women and children from the path of rectitude. A safeguard for the home, and an irresistible influence for good in the minds of old and young. This great book contains more than 550 pages, a large number of beautiful illustrations. Joyce of the Jasmine

By Ralph Henry Barbour

An exquisite tale of the South with a fetching heroine, which to say the least of it has a unique opening as "The Man" who is 26, heart-broken, rheumatic, trying to kill abuzzing fly and missing him to extract some pleasure out of watching his enemy fall to climb a window pane. In the book is an old doctor, a bachelor; but full of sentiment, and Joyce, a slit of a girl, is very dear to him. Phillip Weld, the rich patient and society man, finds in the quaint and lovable Joyce an opportunity to mend his broken heart, although Tom Darrell worries him considerably about his cousin, Joyce. It is a lovely story with a beautiful setting. Illustrated in color by Clarence T. Underwood. Marginal decorations on each page. Small quarto. Decorated cover in gold, with medalion. Cloth, gilt top, $2.00. In a box. J. B. Lippincott, Philadelphia, Pa.

of today; and yet it shows how these men and women found joy and happiness in life.

It is a tale most appealing and tenderly touching to all who believe in grace of love; and the reading of it leaves behind the perfumes of that grace in the mind and heart, for many a day. It is a tale with true charm—the charm that transports and delights at the same time.

A critic has said of this novel: "No tenderer story can be found in the English language."

"The Garden of Resurrection" will be read and re-read not only for the exquisite manner of Mr. Thurston's telling of the tale, but for the sake of companionship with the gentle, brave people who live in the inspiring beauty of the tale's atmosphere. Mitchell Kennerly, N. Y. $1.30, net.

The Pecks in Camp.

Eight Volume of "Phillips Exeter Series". By A. T. Dudley. Illustrated by Charles Copeland. 12mo. Cloth. $1.25.

The "Phillips Exeter Series," including "Following the Ball" and other equally popular books, made Mr. Dudley famous as a writer of school athletic stories, and no publisher has a better offering for boys than another volume after an interval of two years. The Pecks, as all readers of previous volumes know, are twin brothers so resembling each other that it is almost impossible to tell them apart, a fact which the roguish lads make the most of. Other well-known characters appear, although the story is complete in its self. The scene of this-book is laid in a typical summer camp for boys, with great rivalry between the "lodges," or houses in which the boys live. It is thus rather a story of boy life and fun and athletic sports than an attempt to describe camps or tell how to conduct them, and will be all the better liked for that reason.

Chased Across the Pampas.

Or American Boys in Argentina, and Homeward Bound.

Sixth Volume of "Pan-American Series"

By Edward Stratemeyer

The heroes are the same bright, self-reliant youths with whom we have previously traveled in Central America, the West Indies, and the upper portion of South America. From Peru, the lads with their instructor pass into Bolivia, and then travel down the coast of Chili, meeting with several adventures on the way. From Chili they enter the immense territory of Argentina and start for Buenos Ayres. They have been followed by a man who incites some gauchos to follow the boys, in order to capture them for a ransom. The chase across the pampas, the fire on the plains, and the encounter with wild beasts and stampeded cattle make a thrilling story. Vivid pen-pictures are also given of the large cities visited, and of life in that far-away country. This is the concluding volume in a really valuable series, although in no way dependent upon the other volumes for its interest. Illustrated by John Goss. 12mo. Cloth $1.25.

The Airship Boys' Ocean Flyer Or, New York to London in Twelve Hours.

By H. L. Saylor.

The sixth title of the "Airship Boys Series." 12mo. Cloth. $1.00. Reilly & Britton Company, Chicago.

In our experience as publishers we have never put forth a book for youngsters with more pride than we feel in The Airship Boys' Ocean Flyer. It is, in our opinion one of the most interesting boys' book coming from any press within the last ten years—the kind that grown-ups read as they did "Tom Sawyer" and "Treasure Island." It is our belief that this book will establish Mr. Saylor as among the foremost writers of boys' literature. He has that happy faculty of putting a quality into his juvenile stories which gains for them an audience among thousands of fathers who still retain their interest in boys' books of adventure. This story has to do not only with aerial navigation, but also with the workings of a great newspaper. Mr. Saylor knows all about newspaper work and also about airships, in consequence of which he has produced a fascinating tale for the boys of all ages.

Other stories in this series are: "Felicia," "Felicia's Friends," "Felicia Visits."

The Heart of the Bible.

This timely book for young people, parents and teachers, by Ella Broadus Robertson gives a complete grasp of the whole Bible and contains all the principal stories and events of the Bible in their historical order, told in the language of the Bible itself, using the text of the American Standard version.

Wherever there is a break in the dates, as for instance, between the Old and New Testaments, it is bridged over by a short narrative to make the connection. We congratulate the author on her good work and hope the volume will have a large sale.

T. Truxton Hare gives a glowing story for boys from 12 to 16, in this book which will make its appeal to many high school boys throughout the land who are interested in athletics. The former football captain, Bob Walters, is now in the law school, and is head coach of the eleven. He finds undergraduate and alumni politics undermining his influence and the team plays raggedly. His friend Trelawney, however, teaches the men a lesson, and they get together in time for the big game. This stirring story begins in the Canada woods, during vacation, and ends on the campus. Commander Edward L. Beach U. S. His adventures, while often exciting, present a picture of a young sailor's training that is true in every detail. It is well worth while to know something of the life of the 50,000 enlisted men, most of them quite young, who make up our Navy. Betty at last allows Jim Watson a voice in deciding her career, and her college friends gather to say good-bye to Betty "Wales."

Cyclopedia of Illustrations.

This is intended for public speakers. It contains facts, incidents, stories, experiences, anecdotes, selections, etc., for illustrative purposes, and owing to the splendid arrangement and cross references it is really just what one would expect, for it is compiled and edited by Robt. Scott and William C. Stiles, editors of the Hanaletic Review, and published by Frank & Wagnalls Company, New York, who are experts at this kind of a venture. The book contains over 800 pages and is sold for $5.00. We agree with the well known clergyman who said "that a book of fresh illustrations should be made as often at least, as once in ten years." We have often heard Brother Crompton lament the fact that some of our younger preachers never illuminated their sermons with illustrations. Paxton Hood's definitive epigram, "Illustrations are windows" may be backnumber but it is true. Unusual effort has been employed to make this work accurate and we know it has been made usable. For the special use of preachers, many of the illustrations have a reference to a Scripture text, and two text indexes are provided. A large amount of useful information has been put into paragraphic form. We believe this is an ideal book and that it will not only furnish public speakers with apt illustrations but will provide all who use it to develop out of their own experience still further stories to live up their discourses.

Selections From the Letters, Speeches, and State Papers of Abraham Lincoln.

Edited, with introduction and notes, by Ida M. Tarbell, 16mo. Cloth, 124 pages, with frontispiece. 30 cents.

This little book is founded on the compiler's conviction that the most practical and inspiring guide our history offers for developing genuinely democratic Americans is the life of Abraham Lincoln. Coupled with his conviction is a second equally strong, that the best place to study Lincoln is in his own writings.

The collection has been especially prepared to meet the college entrance requirements in English for 1913-1915.

Teachers will find Miss Tarbell's introduction and suggestions for study particularly helpful. Ginn and Company, Publishers, Boston.

IT DOES NOT PAY ITS WAY.

Modern students of the liquor question have agreed that there is but one really fundamental cause for the continued existence of the saloon. There are many accessories, but without the enormous financial consideration connected with the business it could never persist. Finances keeps it in politics and politics are responsible for much of the profit of the business. The alleged financial gain to the taxpayer has been the determining factor in nearly every case where the cause of the saloon has won. The claim that liquor revenue pays for public improvements and reduces the taxes has been the slogan of the liquor forces in every contest.

But after a careful study of the situation the report of the vice commission of the Cleveland Baptist Brotherhood says:

"THE SALOON IS A MORAL EVIL AND FINANCIAL LOSS AND BURDEN TO OUR CITY."

And for this conclusion they show that in 1910 Cleveland received from the liquor tax $1,253,657.66. It would appear that with this enormous income from the liquor tax that the city of Cleveland must have been enabled to care for the damaging effects of the saloon and have a respectable balance with which to make public improvements and reduce taxes, but such was not the case. The expense of courts, criminals, correctional institutions and the care of the poor totaled $1,860,788.03, or $607,130.37 more than the income from the liquor revenue. Add to the liquor tax the earnings of courts and correctional institutions and benevolent institutions and the deficit is still $504,971.75. It should be added, however, that it requires a great deal more than a million dollars a year in private donations, besides the amount assessed to taxpayers, to care for the annual product of the saloon.

And we believe similar facts showing the great financial burden of the saloon could be found to exist in every community if a commission of capable, business men would take the trouble to do what the Cleveland Baptists did so thoroughly.

Business men and even labor unions have been fooled into the belief that "prohibition hurts business," when in fact to transfer the capital that employed a hundred men in making boots and shoes to making liquors would put eleven-twelfths of the men out of a job.

Of each dollar spent in the manufacture of liquors, labor's share is only 2 cents, but labor's average share of each dollar spent in the manufacture of the comforts of life is 16.2 cents.

TALKS LIKE A SOUTHERN BAPTIST.

In this day of loose thinking and still looser views among Baptists uniting with other denominations it is good to read that at the twenty-third convention of the Baptists of Ontario and Quebec President C. J. Holman, K. C., LL. D., said in his address at the opening of the meeting, as reported in a Montreal paper:

"This is a day of compromises. Peace at any price is in the air. It would seem that Shadrath, Meshech and Abednego made a mistake in not bowing down to the golden image. Church union is advocated on economic grounds. One is now asked to sacrifice to a man's religion as one would subscribe for stock.

"But Baptists did not divide Christendom by caprice, but owing to their strong convictions, which have survived the persecution of centuries. They rejected baptismal regeneration, but believed in believer's baptism; to baptize an infant a few days old was to baptize one who must necessarily be an unbeliever at the time, and who might never be a believer.

"It is not from a sectarian spirit, but from adherence to the truth, but Baptists are unable to unite with other sects.

"The Baptist position in regard to baptism is the apostolic one, this being hardly open to debate in the twentieth century."

Baptists have a distinctive message, and it is folly to try and dilute it in order to curry favor with other denominations. We are praying that the convictions of our people will grow stronger instead of weakening in the hope of getting into our churches members who do not heartily and conscientiously believe in the things for which our forefathers stood.

An English physician is quoted in the Examiner who says that snoring can be stopped, if when the snorer begins some one in the room will whistle softly.

It has been well said there are three necessary qualifications for an effective discourse: First, have a message worth telling; second, know how to tell it; third, stop talking when it is told.

Baptists are making rapid progress in Russia. During 1910 there were 9,033 persons baptized into the Baptist churches. Churches established only four and five years ago now number 700 and 800 members, while one church has 1,200 members.

The late Dr. Thomas J. Conant used to say, when the subject of translating instead of transliterating the Greek word baptizein was under consideration: "Our non-immersionist friends can argue the question, and write pamphlets about it to the end of the world, but there is one thing they cannot do—they cannot translate the word."

Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, president of the Baptist World's Alliance, who resigns the pastorate of Calvary Baptist church, New York City, retires after 40 years of service to that congregation. During that period he has baptized 5,000 persons and raised over $2,000,000 for various church causes. Our good wishes follow him as he sets out for his difficult task in Russia.

Rev. Thomas Spurgeon, who in his boyhood was a draughtsman and etcher, has, since ill health compelled his retirement from the Metropolitan Tabernacle, returned to his early love and blossomed forth as an artist. A collection of a hundred water color drawings, painted by Mr. Spurgeon within the last two years was recently exhibited. They are mainly landscapes of Swiss and Devonshire scenes and seascapes on the Devon coast, with a few vagrant drawings in Suffolk and Surrey.

We are glad to call attention to Brother Crumpton's urgent appeal for Guntersville church building, the only county seat in Alabama without a Baptist church. That ought to be a strong appeal to our people. Couldn't the subscribers to the Alabama Baptist make an effort to help the young brother who has put his enthusiastic heart into this work? "The Alabama Baptist fun;" that looks good to us. We will take pleasure in receiving anything for the fund which may be sent us, and will publish the names of every donor, but we prefer that contributors will send to Brother Crumpton at Montgomery or direct to Mack Kilcrease, Esq., Guntersville. Brother Crumpton starts the fund with $5. Who will join our secretary?

Following the thankful celebration of John D. Rockefeller of the fifty-sixth anniversary of getting his first and only job the story of how Rockefeller was inspired to his financial career by a porter in a St. Louis store became public. It was at the urging of Samuel Andrews, the porter, that Rockefeller engaged in the oil refining business, invested $1,000, the whole of his fortune. Mr. Rockefeller, having received an increase in pay to $25 a month at the end of his first year as bookkeeper for Hewitt & Tuttle, decided that he could not make or save much money working for others. In order to get a chance he went to St. Louis. There in 1853, with $500 he had saved, he engaged in the commission business with M. R. Clark, an Englishman, forming the firm of Clark & Rockefeller. At the age of 30 he had accumulated $1,000. It was then he met Andrews, the porter, became interested in the oil refining business on the Mississippi river above St. Louis under the firm name of Andrews, Clark & Co.

THE CHILDLESS CHURCH.

The following paragraph from an article in the Standard by Dr. M. P. Boynton, of Chicago, on the topic, "The Childless Church," is worth thinking about:

"The ordinary church service is practically childless. This is a deplorable situation, and dangerous to the church. The Sunday schools, for the most part, are separate organizations, and no large per cent of the adult portion of the Sunday school remains for the main service of the church. This, likewise, is an unfortunate situation. Churches grow strong as the preaching services are supported. We cannot afford to have childless church services and expect to have growing, aggressive, achieving churches. The present situation in the ordinary city church is perilous; perilous to the highest good of the Sunday school, for the successful preaching of the gospel and for the proper raising of the children in the home."

It is bad enough about the children absenting themselves, but in a number of instances teachers and even superintendents attend the Sunday school exercises and Sunday after Sunday remain away from the preaching services. A writer in the Journal and Messenger recently said:

"Not long since we visited a church where the morning school was large and nobly equipped. There were two men's classes, one of 50 young men, and the other of some 25 married men. There were scores of boys and girls of from 10 to 15 years. At the morning worship that followed there was scarcely one of these youth, and of the men in the congregation there were very few that had been in that Sunday school. And yet we were told it was above the average congregation! Neither of the teachers of the men's classes ever remain for the hour of worship! Unless that is all changed, it will be only a few years until that church is utterly ruined. And the teachers and officers of the Sunday school will have killed that church as effectually as if they had deliberately planned that very result."

A VISIT TO MOTHER.

The following paragraph in the Monroe Journal deserves a conspicuous place:

"Rev. J. M. Gilbert left on Monday to pay his annual visit to his mother, who resides in Georgia."

We wonder how many sons are equally thoughtful. We fear that too many forget the old folks. Oh, men, do not let business keep you from visiting your parents if God in His goodness has permitted them to live after you have established homes of your own. Yesterday we witnessed three stalwart men with streaming eyes as loved ones bore their mother's coffin to the hearse. Mother can't live always. While you have the opportunity pay her a visit.

SUPPRESSION OF OPIUM EVIL.

December 1 the "International Conference for the Suppression of the Opium Evil," called by President Taft, and consisting of official representatives of fourteen nations, meets at the Hague. Let every friend of missions and of reforms secure the adoption of anti-opium petitions at the first opportunity and mail them to President Taft. Forty churches in the national capital will hold a prayer service on or near December 1 to pray for world-wide anti-opium prohibition. Let every church do likewise, and at the same time petition the president to persist in that great proposal. We find cause for rejoicing in the unparalleled progress of the anti-opium crusade, which has fully won in five provinces of China, and promises to cover not only that land, but the world in two or three years. There is cheer in the suggestion that the nations now gathered at the Hague for "the suppression of opium" may ere long enact international prohibition of the twin destroyer, alcohol.

The fourth annual meeting of the Medical Missionary Conference, held under the auspices of the American Medical Missionary Board, will be held at Battle Creek, Mich., January 2-5. Rev. Lemuel C. Barnes, field secretary of the Baptist Home Mission Board, is to preside over the conference, and the attendance of several prominent mission workers is already assured.

War Veteran—63 Years Young.

What a contrast there is between the two classes of old people you meet—one bowed with age and infirmities and incapacitated for the duties of life, and the other strong, active and efficient to the very end. The one suffering, patient, but often sensitive, realizing that his day has passed—the other light-hearted, busy looking after the comforts of the household.

And yet do you know that the only difference is that the one has weak, impure blood and the other rich, pure blood in his veins. The blood is the life of the body. Every organ, muscle, nerve and limb is absolutely dependent upon the blood for its nourishment. Bad blood means disease and weakness. Good blood means health and strength.

A Missouri War Veteran, Mr. R. H. Gardner, tells how he swapped bad blood for good and infirmities for health. Writing from Crane, Mo., on June 10, 1910, he says:

"I contracted inflammatory rheumatism during the civil war, and for twenty years was unable to do manual labor on account of this disease. Abscesses and running sores covered my body and limbs and I was confined to the bed every spring and fall. Several good physicians treated me, but did no good, and I had given up all hope until a friend told me that W. H. Bull's Herbs and Iron would cure me.

"I am sixty years of age, in good health and haven't taken any medicine since I quit using Herbs and Iron ten years ago."

W. H. Bull's Herbs and Iron is the quickest and surest of all blood purifiers and tonics. Get a bottle at your druggist's. Take two-thirds of it and if you are not fully satisfied that it is improving your health return the remainder and the druggist will refund the price—every cent of it.

Dumb Chills and Fever.

Douglasville, Tex.—"Five years ago I was caught in the rain at the wrong time," writes Miss Edna Rutherford, of Douglasville, "and from that time was taken with dumb chills and fevers, and suffered more than I can tell. If every person suffering from eczema knew of the wonderful curative powers of Tetterine, this tormenting malady would soon be unknown. Read what Mrs. Thomas Thompson, Clarksville, Ga., says:

MISSIONARIES NEEDED.

Up here in Lauderdale county we have John Barker, who first was baptized into the Baptist church, and afterwards joined the Campbellites and became a preacher. He now declares that he is the only true minister of the Lord on earth, that everybody must be baptized in his name or they are forever lost. So in the name of John Barker he now baptizes and re-baptizes all who come to him from Campbellites or Baptists, and, strange to say, but true, he gets some of them, too. He has introduced the apocryphal New Testament as the recently discovered word of God. The unlettered people are going his way in such numbers as to astonish the thinking people. One feature of his religion is that they all carry firearms, even to meeting, and out on the farm when at work the gun is kept handy. Now, will you say the missionary is not needed? L. N. BROCK.

MARY'S COLD.

A Washington educator has been circulating this adaptation of a well-known poem about the schools of the city. It is a part of the campaign literature against the danger of catching cold by infection. The rhyme runs thus:

Mary had a little cold
That started in her head,
And everywhere that Mary went
That cold was sure to spread.

It followed her school one day
(There wasn't any rule);
It made the children cough and sneeze
To have that cold in school.

The teacher tried to drive it out;
She tried hard, but—kerchool!
It didn't do a bit of good,
For teacher caught it, too.

Our field, comprising Butler Springs, Fellowship and Forest Home churches, is at present without a pastor, Rev. J. R. Griffith having lately resigned to accept the work at Centerville. Respectfully—W. A. Glenn.

HERBS AND FLOWERS CURE CATARRH

A Safe, Simple, Reliable Remedy Which Costs Nothing to Try

You need not suffer from catarrh, bronchitis, lingering colds or other catarrhal troubles. After years of research and experiment Dr. Blosser discovered a compound of herbs, leaves and flowers which by a unique method is applied to every nook and corner of the mucous membrane in the head, nose, throat and lungs.

Any sufferer, after giving it a trial, can readily see why it is so greatly superior to such ordinary treatments as sprays, ointments, salves, liquid or tablet medicines, because all these do not and cannot reach all the affected parts, while Dr. Blosser's method reaches every spot; and this explains, at least in part, the wonderful success with which it is meeting. The full size package costs but one dollar. It is harmless, pleasant to use, and is easily applied even by a child.

No matter how deep-seated, your catarrh may be; no matter how long it has troubled you; no matter if other remedies have failed; you should give this treatment a trial, and it will do for you what it has done for thousands of other sufferers. Write at once to Dr. J. W. Blosser, 204 Walton street, Atlanta, Ga., in order to avail yourself of his offer of a free trial package of the remedy and an illustrated booklet which gives all the facts about catarrh. It is not necessary to send any money—simply send your name and address.

AN APPRECIATION OF CAPT. E. C. PERRY.

In one of the Psalms (Ps. 84:11) it is said that "the Lord will give grace and glory." These two words, grace and glory, are often found in the Bible, but not in the relationship to each other that the Psalmist employs them. Both of them are God-given, but one is the result or the outgrowth of the other. Grace, in its broadest sense, is God's loving favor extended to man, and glory is the result of the working of that grace. As some one has very aptly said, "Grace is the sunshine, and glory is the rainbow." As the sunshine paints the rainbow upon "the mantle of the storm," so the grace of God places a crown of glory upon the life of the one who lives in its light.

Such was true in more than an ordinary degree in the life of Capt. Edward C. Perry, of Glennville, Russell county, whose death on the 5th of November is sincerely mourned by all who knew him. To know him was to love him, and to come under the influence of his life was to receive an inspiration of the highest and noblest type. As a soldier, a citizen, a business man, a friend, a husband, a father, a Christian, he left a lustre of glory which the years cannot bedim and which time cannot erase.

Captain Perry was born at Macon, Ga., June 27, 1841; spent his young boyhood days at Milledgeville, Ga., and later came with his mother to live at Glennville. When the war arose between the states young Perry was made captain of a company of volunteers which was organized in Barbour and Dale counties. This company joined the Thirty-first Georgia regiment, and was known as Company C, becoming a part of Gordon's brigade, Ewell's division and Stonewall Jackson's corps. The first real service this company saw was at the battle of Mechanicsville, or the beginning of the seven days' fighting before Richmond, June 27, 1862, the day Captain Perry was 21 years old.

From the time of this battle until it settled with Lee at Appomattox Captain Perry's company never missed an engagement, during all of which time he was at the head of it, a brave and gallant officer, loved and respected by all the men in his command.

After the cause was lost he came home to a land that was blighted by the ravages of war, but set to work with a determination of will and an honesty of purpose that in a few short years had the land all round about him blossoming with a peace and prosperity that yielded to him as a fruit of his labors a generous amount of this world's goods.

As a citizen and business man he was progressive and public spirited, always taking a stand for the right, insomuch that one instinctively felt him to be incapable of descending to anything low, trivial or unworthy, but rather that he moved ever on a lofty plane of thought, sentiment and conduct.

As a man he was fair and just, unselfish and generous, gracious in bearing, and with a personal magnetism that caused him to number his friends by the hundreds, even from the negro who tilled his soil to those who were first in the land.

But his crowning glory was his Chris-uan life. A rare and ripened character he was, showing always that his religion was not a routine of form, but an experienced reality—a man whose sensitiveness of conscience blended in beautiful harmony with a lofty ambition and energetic will. Although he was the only resident member of the once thriving Glennville Baptist church—a church which had been for years without a pastor—he contributed systematically and regularly to all the causes fostered by the Baptist denomination.

As to his home life—those who knew him best loved him dearest. The affectionate husband, the indulgent father, has been called first, leaving behind a sorrowing wife and three grief-stricken daughters. We commend them to the Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well. And may they give him up to God, not without tears—that is not possible—but with that full surrender of the heart which makes the sacrifice acceptable in His sight, looking forward in Christian hope to the hour when "the day breaketh and the shadows flee away."

A NOTE OF SYMPATHY.

Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

This promise was fulfilled after several months of intense, but patient suffering, on the beautiful Sabbath morning of November 5, 1911, when the pearly gates of heaven swung open to admit the spirit of Mrs. R. S. Thompson into the portals of glory.

We feel that in the falling asleep of our sister we have lost a faithful and consecrated member, who was ever loyal to the cause.

We, the ladies of Circle No. 5, extend to the bereaved family our deepest sympathy, and commend them to God, the great Comforter.

We bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well, and pray that this dispensation of His providence may be the means of grace that will draw each member of the family closer to himself.

Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord.
MRS. J. S. CONNELL,
Committee Ruhama Baptist Church.

W. B. STROCK DEAD.

Mr. W. B. Strock died at his home in Verbena last week at the age of 85 years. He was the son of John Daniel Strock and Nancy Livingston, and was born near Prattville on December 1, 1828. When 12 years of age his father moved to Elmore county, where Mr. Strock continued to live till 1868. On December 4, 1851, he was married to Miss Mary Price. In early manhood he was converted and united with the Mount Hebron Baptist church. In 1868 he removed to the home occupied at the time of his death, near Verbena, and united with the Chestnut Creek church, of which he was for some years a deacon. Afterward he withdrew from this church to assist in the organization of the Verbena Baptist church, of which he was a member at the time of his death. In early manhood Mr. Strock became a member of Hampton Sidney lodge of Masons at Robinson Springs. As a father and friend he was all that could be expected or demanded of mankind—faithful, gentle, lovable.—Prattville Progress.

AN INSPIRING STORY.

We were riding along the public road chatting very pleasantly, I mean a Baptist preacher and I, when I asked him to tell something of his early history. He very readily consented to do so, and proceeded to relate, as best I can remember, the following story:

"My father died when I was a lad of 15. We were poor. I was the oldest of seven children. My mother had a hard struggle, with the children all helping who could, on our little mountain home in T— to keep the wolf from our door. Sometimes the frost of December would pinch the children's toes. I did the plowing, cut the firewood and all the farm work usually done by a man that I could. The summer after I was 17 at a protracted meeting at the little church where my mother belonged I felt that the Lord saved my soul and that my name was written in the Lamb's book of life in heaven. This was to me the greatest event that ever occurred in all history. I immediately joined the church, and along with eight or ten others was baptized on the fourth Sunday in August, 189—. Never shall I forget the smile that played on my dear mother's face and how she met me at the water's brink, embracing me as only a tender, loving mother can.

"I soon had very strong impressions that I was called of God to preach His gospel. In fact, I felt when the Lord saved me that he had a work for me to do. Let me add just here that I believe when a person is saved he becomes a servant of God, a laborer sent forth to work in His harvest. These impressions sank deeper into my soul as the months sped by, but I reasoned thus with myself: 'How can I preach—a poor, ignorant, unlearned boy? Who? Me teach people the way of life and salvation?' In the meantime, however, the church licensed me to preach. My incompetency I felt keenly, but to get an education and prepare for my life work seemed out of my reach, utterly out of the question. I had, it is true, attended the public school near our home two or three months a year for four or five years, yet I felt that the training was entirely too poor.

"I was sent by the church as a messenger to our association in the autumn after I began trying to preach in the spring. President J. T. H., of C. & N. College, was there soliciting students. I was pointed out to him. He asked me for a private talk. In answer to his questions I told him the situation with me; that I needed an education, and wanted it badly; that to be effective I thought I must have training; that I had no money; that my mother was a poor widow and needed my labor to help provide for the family. He said: 'Go home and talk this matter over with your mother. First get her consent. Then come on to college. If you can get any money, well and good; if not, come any way. The Lord provides for His people who trust in Him.' So as soon as I reached home I related this interview to my mother. The tears came into her eyes as she laid her hand on my shoulder and said: 'Al, you have been a good son. You have worked hard to help me rear these little brothers and sister of yours to what they are; you have never drank whiskey that I know of, though it has been all about us; you have never laid out at night from home; nor have you kept the bad company that I know was in our community. But you have been, as I said, a good boy. So I give my consent willingly and freely for you to go. Jonnie is large enough now to plow. I cannot help you any, as you know, but I say go, accept the man's proposition, and may the good Lord bless you and care for you is my humble prayer.

"In about two weeks I was ready to go. So I went, glad of the opportunity, but sorry to leave the dear ones at home. I felt that I loved them better than I ever had in all my life as I tore myself from their embrace.

"I was met at the college by a representative of the school, who carried me to Mrs. M.'s, where I arranged to board. I told her that I had no money, but a friend of mine at home had promised to send $10 in a few days; that one nickel was all the cash I had. Under these circumstances she took me in. I was then 19 years old. Next day I reported at chapel ready for duty. Dr. H. shook my hand warmly when I met him. I told him where I was going to board, but that I was unable to pay for anything in advance; that a friend of mine back at home had promised to send me a little money in a short time. He said all right. I was assigned to the proper classes, and I went to work with all the energy of my soul. A month soon passed. I went to Mrs. M. and told her that I had not yet received any money from my 'friend,' but that I hoped to hear from him before many days; that I would like to stay on with her if she could trust me. I had had no washing done except what I secretly did myself. I felt that I was in a very bad plight indeed. However, Mrs. M. agreed to keep me another month. So, with renewed energy and all the studiousness at my command I pressed forward in my studies, yet the weight of poverty was pressing me down and embarrassing me all the time. I washed my own clothes. I had absolutely no money. No one but the very poor have any conception of my condition or feelings. I had now been here two months. My record at college was—I say it modestly—splendid. I am proud of it yet. My record for paying debts was bad. I had paid absolutely nothing. This was the situation with me as I climbed to the garret of the old college building one afternoon to talk again to the Lord about the matter. There alone, with no one but God to hear, I plead with Him for help. I said: 'Father, I am here to try, to make preparations to preach Thy truth. I feel that Thou hast called me to this noble and sacred work. I am in poverty among strangers and away from home. If I have made a mistake, blessed Father, help me out of it all. I want to do right. I want to do Thy will. Oh, God, help me!' I don't know how long I stayed up there; a good while, though.

"Next morning after chapel Dr. H. called to me as we were leaving the hall and said: 'Alford, a gentleman of wealth, a friend of mine, has advised me that he will support one boy in school here. He will not allow his name made known. Neither does he wish to know the name of the young man he is supporting. He wants him to be worthy of this favor. He has left it with me to select the boy, and I have selected you. Your board was paid last night, as was the bill for your books. So you need not worry about those debts any more. All your expenses will from now on be paid by this unknown friend.' I stood there dumbfounded. The only thing I remember saying was: 'Thank you, doctor. My heart is too full for utterance.' You can scarcely imagine my feelings."

This noble man is now pastor of a great church in Tennessee.

CHILTON COUNTY BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

Dear Brother: At the last meeting of the Chilton County Baptist Association the matter of organizing all the Baptist churches of the county into a county Baptist Sunday school convention was considered, and a committee consisting of S. M. Adams, W. N. Henson, Jackson Palmer, W. M. Olive and F. M. Woods was appointed to select a place and time and issue a call to all the Sunday schools in the county, and you are asked to send one or more of your best Sunday school workers to Clanton on the first Sunday in December, 1911, to consider this matter, and if this meeting thinks wise, to affect the organization at once. Be sure and have your Sunday school represented, and if you have no Sunday school have the church to send some one to represent her. Fraternally,

PARKER MEMORIAL CHURCH.

It would do your heart good to visit our church, for it is being rejuvenized. Our pastor is great. In fact, we did no small "stunt" when we moved him from Mississippi. In the weekly prayer meetings he has organized a junior choir. Consequently the children want to go to sing. Last night the B. Y. P. U. had about 100 present. The very youngest member is on the program once a month, and they are so enthused that they are bringing the parents out, and they in turn are catching the spirit.

A MEMBER.

The State of Alabama, Jefferson County, Probate Court, October 31, 1911. Estate of Mrs. Clemenza L. Taylor, Deceased.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

The golden jubilee of Foreign Missions was most delightfully celebrated at the home of Mrs. Crowell November 20. A perfect autumn afternoon, a common interest and anticipation of the splendid program to be rendered, called together about 50 members of the missionary societies, whose bright faces and the knowledge that all are in one place, with one purpose, to learn more about the Master's service, were an inspiration. That grand old hymn, "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord," united 50 voices in praise to our King, and we forgot that we are three separate organizations and remembered that we are one in service. Scripture lesson, "Women of the Bible," by Mrs. Fred Prather, gave us Miriam's beautiful song of deliverance, Deborah leading Israel's hosts to victory, Dorcas making little garments for the poor and Lydia aiding Paul in his missionary labors. The prayer led by Mrs. A. K. McLeod breathed a spirit of gratitude for good work done during the past 50 years and made an earnest plea for more consecration, more workers and more zeal in the spread of the gospel. Mrs. F. L. Pearson gave the history and purpose of the jubilee. It was born in the writing and reading of a book, and in prayer she gave us a vision of the great meetings which have been held in the large cities and made us glad to be numbered with the host who celebrate the golden jubilee of missions. Mrs. Lane's address, "After the Jubilee, What Then?" was the practical feature of the meeting. How she lead us on to see what our needs are, that the majority of our women who are members of the churches should be working members of the missionary societies, that there should be mission study classes to better inform the members about the work and that we who are members should catch a new inspiration of what it means to be workers together with God.

Work is the duty of the hour, and consecration of body, mind and soul is the need of the hour.

The sweet musical voice of Miss Edith Smith in the songs, "Hold Thou My Hand" and "My Task," charmed and delighted and bore our thoughts heavenward, so that we made melody in our hearts to God. "A Jubilee Offering," so beautifully read by Mrs. Crowell, shows our jubilee aim to be a million dollars and more interested women. This shall be accomplished by united effort, by personal service, by earnest prayer.

After a season of voluntary prayer, led by Mrs. Hamner and closed by Mrs. J. J. Johnson, Miss Vardeman gave an exquisite piano solo, and thus closed a meeting which was a happy, joyous occasion for those present and which we hope will be productive of much good both in the near future and in the years to come.

The hostess, assisted by Misses Jessie Berry and Edith Smith, served a most delicious salad course.

BIRMINGHAM LYCEUM COURSE, SEASON 1911-12.

The Birmingham Lyceum is entering upon its sixth season. The effort in the past has been to provide lectures and entertainments of a high order of merit at a small cost to our patrons.

The course arranged for this season will meet the demand for wholesome entertainment, helpful instruction and breadth of culture, the need of which has been proved by the success of former seasons. From the standpoint of real merit, the course given below presents an array of talent which should be appreciated by the cultured people of the city.

The following is a list of the lecturers

November 22—Montville Flowers in "Hamlet" presents a dramatic reading as an ideal in the realm of great interpretation.

December 14—Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent.

January 13—Frank J. Cannon, first United States senator from Utah, will give his lecture on "The Modern Mormon Kingdom."

February 14—John Kendrick Bangs, the well-known humorist, will give "Salubrities I Have Met."

February 26—William A. Colledge, scholar, author and educator, in "The Ministry of Laughter."

March 11—Jacob Riis, "a man who has done things," has a splendid message in "Tony's Hardships," the story of a street Arab who throws stones, and why.

April 3—Charles Zueblin, editor of the Twentieth Century Magazine, will give his famous lecture on "The Religion of the Common Life," an address worthy of a practical reformer.

April 19—Alton Packard, cartoonist and humorist, will give his lecture on "Types of Uncle Sam's Folks."

April 29 and May 4—Edward Howard Griggs in Shakespearean lectures.

Season tickets admitting to all numbers of the course will be sold for $2, and may be secured from the teachers of the public schools, or at Parker's drug store, and at the book department of Loveman, Joseph & Loeb. Admission to any single entertainment will be 50 cents.

This course is doing much to entertain and instruct, and we hope many will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear men of note speak on their specialties.

The piece entitled "The Problem of a Country Church," in the issue of November 15, is a gem of golden thoughts. If you have read it, hunt it up and read it again, and if you haven't read it it will pay you to find it and read it carefully. The key to the present situation will be found in it to raise humanity to adorn the church and to honor God. Please read it and ponder it well.—G. W. Tomlin.

Bodi-Tone

does just what its name means—cures disease by toning all the body, and we want you to try it for five days free and see what it will do for your body. Bodi-Tone is a small, round tablet, that is taken three times every day. We want to send you fifteen of these tablets, so you can take them regularly for five days, three tablets each day, so you can learn what it is, so you can learn how it works in the body, how it cures stubborn diseases by helping nature to tone every organ of the body. Tone is a little word, but it means a great deal, everything in health. When all the organs are doing their part, when each is acting in a perfectly natural way, when all the functions are healthy and performed with natural vigor, when the energy, strength and power of resistance to disease are all at a natural point, then the body is in proper tone. When disease has attacked any part, when lack of vitality is found and felt, the tone of the entire physical body should be raised to the highest possible point, to make all the body help to cure and restore. This is the power which underlies all of Bodi-Tone's great work for the sick, this is the power it offers you to help you get new health and strength.

What it Is

Bodi-Tone is not a patent medicine, for its ingredients are not a secret. It contains Iron Phosphate, Gentian, Lithia, Chinese Rhubarb, Peruvian Bark, Nux Vomica, Oregon Grape Root, Cascara, Capsicum, Sarsaparilla and Golden Seal. Such ingredients guarantee its merit.

When you use Bodi-Tone you know just what you are using, know it is good and safe and know you are taking the kind of medicine to provide real help for the body. It is a pure remedy that satisfies the most exacting. It contains no narcotics or habit-forming drugs, nothing that your own family doctor will not endorse and say is a good thing. It does not depend on killing pain with cocaine, opium, morphine, or other dangerous drugs. It does not excite the body with alcohol, but it tones the body and cures its disorders with remedies Nature intended to tone and cure the body when that power was given them. Thus, Iron gives life and energy to the Blood, Sarsaparilla drives out its impurities, Phosphate and Nux Vomica create new nerve energy and force, Lithia aids in the Kidneys, Gentian does invaluable work for the Stomach and Digestive forces, Chinese Rhubarb and Oregon Grape Root promote vigorous Liver activity, Peruvian Bark raises the tone of the entire system, Golden Seal soothes the inflamed membrane and checks Catarrhal discharges, Cascara gives the Bowels new life in a natural way, and Capsicum makes all more valuable by bettering their quick absorption into the blood. A remarkable combination that does wonderful work for health. Each of these ingredients serves to assist, to help, to build upon the others work. Each adds a needed element from nature to the body. Each has work to do and does it well. They are used because of this ability. We claim no credit for discovering the ingredients in Bodi-Tone, each of which has its own well-deserved place in the medical books of most of the civilized world. We simply claim the credit for the successful formula which we invented, for the way in which these valuable ingredients are combined, for the proportions used, for the curative force which thousands have found in Bodi-Tone, for the cures which make it different from other remedies. Most of these ingredients are as old as civilization itself, for the curative forces which Bodi-Tone ably uses are the forces which have always existed in nature for the restoration of the body's health. Many are regularly prescribed in some form by the medical profession for various diseases and irregular conditions, being used either separately or in combinations with such drugs as each doctor may favor, for there are wide differences of opinion among the doctors of various schools. The exact combination used in Bodi-Tone is what gives it the far-reaching and thorough curative and restorative power that makes possible the remarkable cures experienced by Bodi-Tone users, cures which prove the difference between Bodi-Tone and common remedies. That is why we want to send you a free five days treatment, for we know you will find it different and superior.

Try it And See

If you are tired of ceaseless doctor bills and wearied of continual dosing without results, you need Bodi-Tone right now. If your local doctor has done you no real good, if you have given him a chance to do what he can and the ordinary medicinal combinations he used have failed, give this modern, scientific combination of special remedies a chance to show and prove what it can do for you. Its greatest triumphs have been among men and women with chronic ailments who had tried physicians and specialists at home and elsewhere without lasting benefit, and for this reason all chronic sufferers are invited to try it at our expense.

Bodi-Tone offers you its services if you are sick, if you need medicinal help, if your bodily organs are not acting as they should, if your body is not in right and natural tone. That is what Bodi-Tone is for—to restore health, vigor, vitality and strength by restoring tone to the body.

If there is anything wrong with your Kidneys, Bodi-Tone helps to restore tone to the Kidneys, helps to set them right. If there is anything wrong with your Stomach, Bodi-Tone helps to tone the Stomach, helps to set the wrong right. If there is anything wrong with your Nerves, your Blood, your Liver, your Bowels or your General System, the health-making ingredients in Bodi-Tone go right to work and keep on working day after day, exerting always a definite action that produces curative results of the kind sufferers appreciate. If you have Rheumatism, Bodi-Tone helps to eliminate the Uric Acid from the system while it restores tone to the Kidneys, Stomach and Blood, thereby preventing a continuance of Rheumatic poison and putting new activity into muscles, nerves and joints. Bodi-Tone should be used by all women suffering from any Female Ailment, for its toning properties have been found especially valuable in such ailments.

You Can't Lose

Why delay another day, when a trial of this proven medicine is yours for the asking. Why keep on suffering, when by filling in your name and address on the free coupon and mailing it to us, you can get absolutely free a five days' treatment of this great remedy which has already restored thousands to health. It just costs a two cent stamp, and you don't need to buy a penny's worth of medicine unless Bodi-Tone benefits you. You have all to win and nothing to lose. The value and curative powers of Bodi-Tone have been proven by three years of glorious cures. It is a remedy with a history—a history of cures that has astonished the doctors and delighted the sick. It has been tested in hundreds of thousands of cases, covering various ailments in both sexes, at all ages.

Persons suffering from Rheumatism, Stomach trouble, Kidney, Liver and Bladder Ailments, Uric Acid Diseases, Female Troubles, Bowel, Blood and Skin Affections, Dropsy, Piles, Catarrh, Anemia, Sleeplessness, LaGrippe, Fevers, General Weakness and Nervous Break-down, have tested Bodi-Tone and fully proven its great remedial value in such disorders.

Their experiences have proven beyond a shadow of doubt how the Bodi-Tone plan of toning all the body is a right plan that helps to cure these and other disorders, that it is a real aid to nature. Many who have for years been in poor health and have tried most all of the prominent medicines, have found that one single box of Bodi-Tone did more good than all the others combined. Others who had suffered for many months, and many for years, trying many doctors and specialists, found their first real benefit in Bodi-Tone, for all else had failed and hope was almost gone. It goes to the root in the body and cures because its work is rational and thorough, the only kind that makes cures permanent. Read the reports, showing how Bodi-Tone makes new life, health and strength, send for a free treatment and see if it will not prove Bodi-Tone the right thing for you.

Dropsy, Rheumatism, and Heart Trouble.

OSCEOLA, IOWA.—Bodi-Tone has done everything for me. I had Dropsy, Heart Trouble, Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble. I would bloat very badly and feel very uncomfortable all of the time. I had spent so much money in doctoring that I had become discouraged, for I had been in poor health for many years. I heard of Bodi-Tone and sent for a treatment. Now I cannot speak too highly of it. It helped me immediately, and now I feel better in every way. My Rheumatism is gone. I do not become bloated as formerly and I can walk good and attend to my duties. It is a wonderful medicine for the sick, and every person who is troubled in any way ought to try it. Mrs. MYRA CARTER.

Catarrh of the Head, Stomach, Bowels.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.—I had Catarrh of the Head, Stomach and Bowels, and had taken medicine until not a tooth was left. I am a war veteran, past 60 years of age, and was a physical wreck when I began to use Bodi-Tone. I had not used all of two boxes when I had regained my appetite, ate heartily and slept well. I thus immediately became an enthusiastic admirer of Bodi-Tone, and have urged its use on everybody I knew to clean up the body. This was over a year ago, and my faith in Bodi-Tone grows stronger every day, for its benefits have stayed with me. I consulted my Stomach and Bowels, and gave me a good healthy condition. I have remarked at the great change in my health. W. W. BUCHANAN, 523 Austin Street.

Run-Down and Very Nervous; Liver Bad.

COFFEE SPRINGS, ALA.—Before I began to take Bodi-Tone I was not able to do my work. I was run down and very nervous and my liver did not act properly unless I would take something to force it. I had Rheumatism, and was getting so poorly that I thought I was running into Consumption. I had no appetite, never felt hungry and could not rest at night. I feel so thankful to Bodi-Tone that all my troubles are gone. I do all my housework and feel fine, altogether like a different person. I am fifty-six years old. I wish all sick and tired women could learn how good Bodi-Tone is for women folks, and I feel that I cannot do or say enough to make its virtues known in my neighborhood. Mrs. M. C. FOXHALL.

Three Days Proved it the Right Remedy.

YOUNGS CREEK, IND.—Before I began to use Bodi-Tone I had had Gas on my Stomach for fully twenty-five years. I was so bad that I could eat hardly anything, because of the distressing belching of gas. I tried many different doctors, but they did me no good, and the same with the patent medicines I used. I had about given up to die soon when I saw the Bodi-Tone free offer and got a treatment. I had used it only three days when I saw it was the right medicine for me. It is the greatest medicine I have ever taken. My Stomach is so much better that I hardly know myself. I believe I would have been in my grave if I had not gotten Bodi-Tone. LUCINDA J. WOOD.
